ROOSEVELT CAN'T REVIEW THE PARADE

The President's Wound Interferes With G. A. R. Program Wednesday.

HIS PHYSICIANS ARE INEXORABLE

Religious Services Begin Week of Veterans' Encampment at Washington.

AUTO PROCESSION TODAY

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 603 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.

It was stated today that President Roosevelt is still progressing toward complete recovery in spite of the tremendous strain undergone during the last few days on account of the coal conferences. It is further said complete recovery is now altogether probable without any further incision of the wounded leg.

Notwithstanding this, his physicians have said that for the next 10 days he must remain absolutely quiet, and on this account he will not be able to review the Grand Army parade next Wednesday from the stand which has been erected for the presidential party.

When this semi-official announcement was made today the veterans of the G. A. R., who are beginning to arrive in the city in great numbers, showed the keenest disappointment. Many expressions of regret were heard. He will be able, however, to see part of the parade from his window in the temporary White House.

Preparations Are Complete.

The 36th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will begin tomorrow, continuing until Saturday. Preparations for the gathering are complete. The local committees have taken every precaution for protection of life and limb and the housing of those who will be unable to find hotel accommodations.

For indigent veterans large tents have been erected on the White House lot and several floors of the new government printing office have been utilized.

Great crowds of visitors have been pouring into the city today, and at the railroad stations it is said the number of persons coming to the encampment is greater, perhaps, than ever before brought to the city on any occasion.

Early last night it began to rain, and this forenoon it poured in torrents, later giving way to a slow drizzle. Probably fair weather is predicted by the weather bureau for tomorrow.

The Program for Today.

Tomorrow there will be an automobile parade, a regatta on the Potomac river, dedication of Camp Roosevelt on the White House lot, at which Secretary of State John Hay will make the chief address, and a grand campfire at convention hall.

A fitting preliminary was the holding of religious services at Camp Roosevelt this afternoon and tonight in Grant tent. The rain interfered with the attendance, still there were many veterans present.

This morning Gen. Torrance and members of his staff attended religious services at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church. They occupied President Lincoln's pew. This afternoon they were the guests of Mrs. John A. Logan at dinner.

LABOR WOULD APPEAL TO THE BALLOT BOX

New York Union Men Think Mitchell Should Get Into Political Game.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—While nearly every delegate who attended the meeting of the Central Federated union today enthusiastically expressed his sympathy for the striking coal miners and his condemnation for the operators, one man there was who declared that John Mitchell, had he taken the proper method, could have ended the trouble two months ago; and as he said this, cries of "Right! Right!" came from all quarters of the hall.

"The whole thing is up to Mitchell," declared Philip Keily of the Theatrical Protective union. "If he would call a convention of the workingmen of Pennsylvania, it would do more to end the strike than any special session of congress. If Mitchell had done that six weeks ago, the strike would be settled now.

"The whole thing is a game of politics, and Michell should get into the game with his 150,000 men."

MONEY FOR MINERS.

Big 6 Typographical Union of New York Increases Its Contribution.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—By unanimous vote Typographical union No. 6 of New York today decided to increase its weekly contributions to the miners' strike fund to 2 per cent of the wages of its members, which will make the weekly contribution about $1,800 or $2,000.

Money was contributed by the Central Federated Labor union at its meeting today. Some unions assessed their members at the rate of 2 per cent of their wages. Other unions made lump sum contributions.

BRAKEMAN KILLED.

NUMEROUS CATHOLIC MARRIAGES AT STAKE

They Are Effected by Decision Demanded from Pope on a Prince's Case.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, Oct. 5.—It is said the presence in Rome the end of this month of Mgr. Chapelle will result in decisive action with regard to the claims of Prince Rospigliosi in the matter of securing the performance of a religious marriage ceremony with Princess Rospigliosi. The Reid-Parkhurst marriage was celebrated by Mgr. Chapelle when he was pastor of St. Mathews church, Washington.

Prince Rospigliosi threatens to create a scandal if his religious marriage with the princess is not allowed. He maintains that Mgr. Chapelle did not obtain the necessary dispensation for Mr. Parkhurst, and that Miss Reid married Mr. Parkhurst without knowing he was not of the Catholic faith.

Princess Rospigliosi has appealed for annulment of her marriage with Frederick Parkhurst. The matter involves a point of canon law the decision of which is considered as liable to affect thousands of marriages of Catholics to non-Catholics in the United States.

The princess was Miss Marie Reid of Washington, D. C., and was married first to Frederick Parkhurst of Bangor, Me.

ANOTHER CAMPANILE DISASTER EXPECTED

The Steeple of San Stefano Looks More Than Ever Ready to Collapse.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

VENICE, Oct. 5.—The steeple of the church of San Stefano shows further signs of collapsing.

It was first announced from Venice August 6 that the upper part of the tower showed signs of falling and preparations were then being made to demolish the tower. The houses surrounding the church were ordered by the authorities to be abandoned. The decision of the government was opposed by the municipality of Venice and a majority of the citizens. The municipality contended that it was possible to repair the tower, while the citizens threatened to prevent its demolition by force.

The church of San Stefano is a Gothic building of the fourteenth century.

BY FLIP OF NICKEL.

Property Worth $12,500 Suddenly Changes Owners in Coney Island Gamble.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The World this morning says: Just the flip of a nickel and $12,500 changed hands today at Coney Island. "Heads," cried George Tilyou.

The coin spun up in the air and lighted with Liberty's face uppermost.

"You win," said "Skip" Dundy, quietly, writing out a receipt for $12,500.

Now Tilyou is the owner of the giant seesaw at Coney Island, which cost Dundy more than $20,000. Dundy will shake the sands of Coney from his feet. Both men are independently wealthy. Dundy is noted for his rule to pay spot cash for everything, and he demands the same of others. He carries no bills, but makes his payments in gold coin.

BEATEN, ROBBED AND LEFT DYING

Albert Mayer Found Unconscious in Allegheny Street.

DIED IN HOSPITAL

Lying in East Robinson street, Allegheny, with his face bruised and blackened by blows, his skull fractured, traces of knockout drops in his stomach, and robbed of his money, the unconscious form of Albert Mayer was picked up yesterday morning. He was taken to the Allegheny hospital and died four hours later of his injuries.

In spite of the fact that every indication points to robbery and murder and that the coroner's deputies and physician says the man met with foul play, the Allegheny detectives advance the theory that he fainted and fell against a building, fracturing his skull. Mayer was 40 years old and lived at No. 5331 Dauphin street, East End. He was employed as a foreman in the foundry of the Westinghouse plant in Allegheny and was known as a respectable citizen.

Mayer was not a drinking man, but he was troubled with heart disease. On Saturday morning he got $20 from his wife and started to work. He was paid at the foundry in the afternoon and received $42. Mayer left the Westinghouse plant at 5 o'clock. There is no trace of him from that hour until at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was seen by Watchman William Whitman, at the West Penn railroad crossing.

Dr. McCandless found traces of irritant poison in his stomach which might have been caused by knockout drops. The coroner's physician believes Mayer was assaulted for the purpose of robbery. His body was identified by his wife at the morgue yesterday afternoon and removed to his home. He leaves three children. The inquest will be held tomorrow.

PRAYER FOR PEACE.

Petition Offered Up by Bishop Burgess in the Garden City Episcopal Cathedral.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Bishop Burgess, at the Episcopal cathedral today, at each of the services, asked the congregation to unite with him in a prayer asking God's divine guidance in the present crisis of the nation resulting from the coal strike. The prayer was:

"Eternal God, who hast made all things in heaven and earth, and who has created the treasures of the ground, the gold and silver, iron and coal, for the blessing of mankind, to be used not for war or for death, but to extend Thy kingdom of love and peace, be graciously pleased to look upon our mining lands, where strife and dissension are rampant. Send into the hearts of operators and miners alike the spirit of conciliation and good will. Protect the homes and laborers from arson and violence, and bring to men everywhere throughout the land a deep sense of the value of that constituted freedom which is not at all allied with license or anarchy. All this we ask for the sake of Him who died upon the cross that all might live—Jesus Christ, our Lord and Saviour. Amen."

CONVICTS SUFFER TO ESCAPE WORK

Cut off Their Fingers Because Forced to Tasks Beyond Their Endurance.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHESTER, Ill., Oct. 5.—J. Reardon and G. Rose, the convicts who cut off their fingers in order to avoid work, declared they were forced to do tasks entirely beyond their strength and that rather than attempt to perform them any longer or endure punishment for refusing to do so, they decided to cut off their fingers from the right hand of each.

If the stories told by the two men be true, a system of most inhuman cruelty has prevailed at the Chester penitentiary. R. J. Wilson of Marissa, Ill., who was keeper over the gang of which the two men were members, has resigned rather than be a party to the cruelties which he declares the prison officials inflicted on the men as punishment.

Reardon and Rose were employed in the foundry. Both are frail men, afflicted with chronic ailments which threaten to end their imprisonment before their terms expire. The work they were compelled to do taxed their endurance to the utmost and when they went to the cells at night they were too exhausted to eat or to rest.

After suffering for months the two men procured a rusty hatchet and accomplished the terrible mutilation before they were discovered. They were given surgical attention by the prison physician and immediately afterward were compelled to stand on a block in the prison yard the remainder of the day.

A SCURVY REWARD FOR HONEST MAN

FIND OF JEWELRY GETS HIM INTO TROUBLE.

While Looking for the Owner, Detectives Look for Him and Hold Him for Theft.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Public Ledger Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 5.

The finding of a handbag containing diamond rings and other jewelry, valued at $3,000, brought much mental torture to Edward Hubbard, a young mechanic. To have been shadowed by city hall detectives and hunted for in two cities, are two of the unpleasant incidents which followed his valuable find.

While on his way to luncheon Saturday Hubbard found the bag on the sidewalk. He was startled at its dazzling contents, and without waiting to eat, returned and hunted his employer. In the bag were four pearls, an opal ring surrounded by diamonds, a solitaire, cluster of seven diamonds, a diamond sunburst, breastpin and pearl ring, besides four other gold rings and $4.80 in currency.

Hubbard spread the rings on a table and the costly display was viewed by 50 or more workmen. The finder informed Contractor Kyle that he would hold the bag until he found the owner.

A workman who had a grievance against the young man rushed to the city hall and informed Capt. Miller. Detectives were sent out to find Hubbard. His home was watched Saturday night and detectives were sent to New York to see if the gems would be disposed of there.

The jewels were the property of Mrs. Ida Kaiser of 1901 Vine street.

On Saturday evening Hubbard went to Mr. Kyle's house in West Philadelphia with the gems. During his absence decoy letters were sent to his home by the detectives. Two other detectives were hurried to New York, where his family lives.

Hubbard, seeing an advertisement for the gems today, informed Mrs. Kaiser where they were. Later a detective found him and held him until it was learned that Mrs. Kaiser had received her gems.

BEGGING RELIEF.

Porto Ricans Complain of Cruelties and Want of Food on Hawaiian Sugar Plantations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The Sun in a special from San Juan, P. R., says: The News has received a communication from Hilo, Hawaii, signed by 500 Porto Ricans who emigrated in 1901 to work on sugar plantations, begging for relief.

They say they are subjected to great cruelties. They do not get sufficient food, are whipped by overseers and live like beasts.

SOLID STATE DELEGATION FOR DALZELL

Two Senators Have Given Him Their Support for Speakership Chair.

EAST PROBABLY IN HIS FAVOR

Prospective Candidate Adheres to Advice to Get Next Congress First.

FINAL STUMPING PROGRAM

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 603 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.

Representatve Dalzell arrived last night for a few days' rest before again entering the campaign, where he will remain on the stump until election day. During the past week he has made several speeches in the state, and on Tuesday he will start on a long tour. He will speak in the order named at Martinsburg, Huntington and Charleston, W. Va., and close the week by a speech at Columbus, O. The following week he will spend in Indiana, but the dates are not fixed.

Mr. Dalzell will return to Pittsburgh the last week of the campaign and will be one of the speakers on October 24 at the Pittsburgh meeting at which Senator Quay will preside. On October 28 Mr. Dalzell will speak at Cumberland, Md.; on October 29 at McKeesport, and on November 1 at Braddock. His other dates have not yet been filled in.

During the week Mr. Dalzell has heard from Senator Quay and many members of the delegation, and all have pledged him their support for the speakership of the next house if he will be a candidate. It was the opinion of all that the great Pennsylvania delegation was entitled to this honor, and that by working together they could carry off the prize.

Mr. Dalzell also has received assurance of support from Republican representatives from other states. All are eager to know if he will be a candidate and are urging him to make the race; but Mr. Dalzell stands on the position taken by him last week, viz., first elect the house and then discuss the speakership.

From now until election day he will be hard at work in doubtful and other districts working for Republican success. Then, if success is secured and the next house is Republican, the chances are decidedly in favor of his being the candidate of the state for the honor.

Developments of the last week in different sections make it apparent that if Mr. Dalzell enters the contest he will win. The indications are that he will be the only candidate from the great eastern section, except Mr. Littlefield of Maine, who is not regarded as a factor in the contest.

The New York delegation is likely to split on the question, some of the members favoring the candidacy of Representative Payne and the others that of Representative Sherman. In the event of this division, it is likely that Senator Platt and the other New York leaders will oppose the candidacy of either of the two named and throw the delegation solidly to Mr. Dalzell. It is also urged that as New York has the president, it should not ask for the speakership.

Thus, with no candidate from New York, Mr. Dalzell should have almost the solid support of the east, including Maryland and West Virginia.

ONE OVERTURE TO GOV. STONE, ANOTHER TO MINE WORKERS

There Are Reasons to Believe These Were the Fruits of the Coal Famine Conference at Temporary White House.

ROOSEVELT NOW LOOKING TO PENNSYLVANIA FOR RELIEF

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 603 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.

Two important propositions, it is believed, looking to ending the anthracite strike, were sent out from the temporary White House today. Both were the result of an administration conference.

One of these supposed propositions was sent to Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania; the other to President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers.

The nature of these requests, if they were really sent, can only be surmised. The lips of those who took part in the consultation are sealed. The fact that Secretary Cortelyou was called on to prepare one or more statements at the direction of the president is taken as an indication that messages were sent out at the end of the conference today and that the reticence of all of the parties is explainable, perhaps, by their desire to avoid the discourtesy of publishing the nature of these before they are received by the persons to whom they are addressed.

Looking to Pennsylvanians.

The administration still regards the coal famine as something with which Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania has full authority to deal. He hopes he will be able to demonstrate whether the claim of the operators are true that they can run their mines full if men who are willing to go to work are given protection. The administration still has no plan, definite or indefinite, for attempting to do anything under United States authority.

Today's conference was attended by Attorney General Knox, as the law representative in the cabinet; by Secretaries Root and Moody, as the representatives of the land and naval forces of the United States; by Postmaster General Payne, as the president's trusted political adviser, and by Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor. The conference began about 10 o'clock and lasted nearly three hours.

There was a very full discussion of all the possibilities of the situation. The president's desire to avert what he fears may grow into a great national calamity warms rather than cools, and most of his time is devoted to considering the problem presented.

Appeals From the People.

He is being literally flooded with suggestions and appeals. Many of these appeals come from men who side entirely with the operators. Others come from persons who believe the operators are entirely in the wrong and should be compelled to recognize the miners' union.

It developed today that there had been considerable irritation on the part of J. P. Morgan, W. K. Vanderbilt and other financiers largely interested in the coal railroads because the president summoned the coal road presidents and the miners' representatives to the White House. This irritation was voiced by the coal operators in their speeches at the conference and in their rejection of John Mitchell's suggestion that the matter be submitted to presidential arbitration.

It is believed that now this irritation has largely disappeared and that much good has been accomplished by the conference. It has directed public attention to the fact that the rational solution, if Gov. Stone will not act, lies in mutual concessions. Influences are at work which may eventually succeed either in inducing the miners to surrender or in bringing the two forces closer together with a view to a settlement. How this can be done, is still very indefinite and intangible.

Claim of Gov. Stone.

In the discussion today the province of the federal government in this matter was again canvassed at length. The president's attitude, so far as sending troops to the coal region is concerned, remains exactly as before. Gov. Stone asserts that he has sent troops to every point in the coal region where they have been asked for and that there is no necessity for sending United States regulars. He has given protection, and yet the men are not at work. There are only two ways in which United States troops could be sent into a sovereign state. One is when the governor or the legislature of a state proclaims that such disorders exist and that the state authorities are powerless and appeals to the president, as was the case with the Coeur d'Alene riots a few years ago; and the other is where United States laws were being infringed and violated, as was the case in the riots during the Debs strike, when troops were sent to Chicago to prevent the stopping of United States mail trains.

The president, in expressing his views at the outset of the conference, talked earnestly and showed a deep feeling. His voice at times became heard down stairs. Several times during the conference Secretary Cortelyou was summoned into the room and directed to prepare certain matters for the consideration of the president and his advisers. This was taken to indicate that some action of one nature or another was about to be consummated.

Secrecy Like War Time.

The utmost efforts were made to guard against publicity. Not since the Spanish war has there been such reticence shown at a conference.

The known facts are that the president has reached the conclusion that he has nothing to expect save refusal from a further appeal to the coal operators, and, therefore, has decided to look for relief from the miners' side. He feels that he hardly can expect them to make the sacrifice of all of their contentions without holding out at least a promise of some return, and the question before him is as to his ability to do this.

He can pledge himself to appeal to congress to examine into the justice of the miners' complaints and remedy them so far as lies in the power of the legislative branch, backed by the earnest good will of the executive. Also, he can suggest to Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania that he cause the Pennsylvania legislature likewise to make an inquiry, perhaps hastening the usual methods by calling an extra session. But these pledges would be given only on condition that the men go at once into the mines and get out with all speed the coal for which the people are suffering.

No Call to Use Compulsion.

To adopt this course means the continuance of the policy of existing moral suasion to end the strike. It is certain that thus far the president has not found a single one of his constitutional advisers who could suggest any departure from this policy. No one could find a method sanctioned by law or Constitution which promised relief and involved the use of duress against either operators or miners.

So it is believed that today's conference was called by the president to put into exact shape the details of a plan conceived in its rough outlines even before the departure of President Mitchell last Friday afternoon from the mixed conference. That the parties to the conference feel that they have accomplished something was made evident by the expression of one of a belief that the miners soon will be again at work.

THE GOVERNOR SILENT.

Will Say Nothing About His Intentions Regarding Strike Situation.

HARRISBURG, PA., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Gov. Stone will not discuss the strike situation or the failure of the Washington conference. Neither will he indicate whether or not he has had any communication directly or indirectly with President Roosevelt on the subject.

If the governor has any plans to settle the strike, he is keeping it to himself. An effort was made tonight to get from the governor a statement, but he declined.

MORGAN'S FOREIGN COAL IS NOT FOR CHARITY

Will Be Sold to All Who Want It at About Cost Price.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Not one pound of the 50,000 tons of coal which J. P. Morgan is to rush from England to this country is to be given away, if the present plans are adhered to. The coal will be sold to all who may want it at such a low rate that it will get to the consumer practically at what it costs Mr. Morgan.

One ton of coal will last a poor family nearly two months, when burned carefully, and, with five persons to a family 250,000 persons will be enabled to defy winter's worst rigors as a result of Mr. Morgan's forethought.

WILL BURY BANKER.

Ohio's Theatrical King to Pay Veteran Actor's Funeral Expenses.

ST. PAUL, MINN., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Frank H. Burt, theatrical king of Ohio, has insisted on paying the funeral expenses of Edward H. Banker, a veteran actor, who died in Minneapolis Friday.

Burt wandered down the Bowery, in New York, six years ago, after returning from a European trip, rather embarrassed for money and out of employment. Banker was then managing a Bowery theater, and Burt applied to him for work. He was given a brief engagement and sent to Toledo, O., where he became prosperous. The body of Banker is now on its way to Toledo.

DIES OF STARVATION BECAUSE TOLD TO

Chicago Chinaman Obeys the Command of a Secret Society.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Wong Now, a Chinaman, died at the Provident hospital, a suicide by starvation, because, it is declared, a secret society had commanded him to die. For two months the man refused to eat and gradually grew weaker, until his case was hopeless. At the command of some mysterious band Now had eaten potash. It did not kill him, and then he refused to take nourishment.

Now's friends were notified that he was dying and 40 of them went to the hospital. For two hours they chanted a death song and then arrayed him in a black cap and gown. Thus arrayed he died.

COUNCIL ASKS DELAY.

Railway Express Companies' Drivers Insist on Striking Today.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Unless the pleadings of the teamsters' joint council shall be heeded, 1,400 members of the Railway Express Drivers' union will go on strike tomorrow morning.

The members of the union, at a meeting this afternoon, by a practically unanimous vote, decided to call an immediate strike and their action was reported to the joint council tonight for indorsement. The council refused to sanction an immediate strike, and asked the men to postpone action for ten days, during which further efforts might be made to bring about a peaceable solution of the trouble.

DREYFUS HONORS MEMORY OF ZOLA

Released by Novelist's Widow from Promise Not to Attend Funeral.

WALKED IN PROCESSION

Floral Offerings from Distant Quarters of the World Carried to the Grave in Cars—Soldiers Line the Route of March.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, Oct. 5.—The remains of Emile Zola were buried today with simple but impressive ceremonies. It was such a funeral as Zola himself would have wished, without pomp, but with the serried ranks of thousands of workingmen, many accompanied by their wives, sorrowfully marching behind his coffin.

Municipal guards, mounted and on foot, lined the route, but except for a company of infantry which rendered military honors to the body as it was carried from the house to the hearse, they were there as guardians of order and not as participants in the ceremony.

Former Capt. Dreyfus marched in the funeral cortege, according to the authority of the prefect of police; but he passed completely unnoticed by the crowd. A little distance behind him came Mme. Dreyfus, accompanied by her father. Dreyfus sent a handsome wreath, which was placed beside the coffin.

Released from His Promise.

The Temps today says Dreyfus went to the Zola house yesterday evening and watched beside the corpse with the family. He induced Mme. Zola to give him back his promise not to attend the funeral and he walked in the procession today between M. la Lance, a former protesting deputy from Alsace in the German reichstag, and M. Monod, a member of the institute.

Long before 1 o'clock, the hour fixed for the start from Zola's house, in the Rue de Bruxelles, an immense concourse began gathering along the short route leading to the entrance of the Mont Martre cemetery, from which the public was completely excluded from midday. The immediate vicinity of the house was surrounded by a cordon of police through which none but relatives and intimate friends of Zola were allowed to pass.

Facing the house was drawn up a double line of infantry commanded by a captain on horseback. The soldiers were there to render military honors due to a deceased officer of the Legion of Honor. The broad portal of the Zola residence was hung with black drapery, which was relieved with silver stars and fringes and surmounted by three silver Zs.

Flowers From Everywhere.

A handsome hearse with sable plumes on the roof and on the heads of the two horses attached to it, stood before the door. The hearse also was enveloped in black and silver housings. Preceding the hearse were three other cars almost hidden beneath masses of magnificent floral offerings from Zola's admirers in all parts of the world, including an immense wreath of giant chrysanthemums and maidenhair fern, to which was attached a ribbon bearing the words, "From the Frenchmen of San Francisco."

Mme. Zola wished to follow her husband's body to the grave, but her doctor absolutely forbade her to do so. She therefore, bade farewell to the remains in the mortuary chamber. Her grief was most poignant when the coffin was removed to the entrance hall of the house, where it rested a few minutes.

As the bier emerged into the street the mounted officer of infantry saluted it with his sword and the two lines of soldiers presented arms. The pallbearers, MM. Chaumie and Herman, representing the Society of Dramatists; Ludovic Halevy, Octave Mirbeau, the deceased novelist's publishers; Charpentier and Fasquelle, and M. Briat, in behalf of the miners, took their places beside the coffin with tasseled cords in their hands and the procession started for the cemetery.

Not One Note of Discord.

Among the masses of spectators which lined the route there were probably many who were not admirers of Zola, but respect for the dead prevented a discordant note, and everybody uncovered as the hearse passed.

At the cemetery M. Chaumie was the first speaker. He said the government was in honor bound to participate in the funeral of one of the highest literary glories of France. Zola's life work had been dominated by anxiety for sincerity and truth, said the speaker, an anxiety inspired by his great feelings of pity and justice.

Alluding to Zola's part in the Dreyfus affair, Mr. Chaumie said that whenever a cause appeared to him an a just one, he regarded it his imperious duty to defend it, although he had to brave unreasonable anger, suffer furious insults and unjust hatred for so doing. These clamors are already dying out, continued the speaker, and death is bringing with it appeasement and calm. It has hastened the definitive hour of justice, and all truly high-minded men, whatever part they may have taken in the struggle, now bow before this coffin.

M. Herman, on behalf of the Societies of Authors and Dramatists, then gave an eloquent review of Zola's labors.

Zola's Enemies Denounced.

The final oration was delivered by Anatole France, one of the most ardent champions of the revision of the Dreyfus case. M. France said that Zola's work could be compared only to that of Tolstoi, but that Tolstoi had built up a city of resignation, whereas the ideal of Zola had been work. The speaker dwelt upon the democratic aim of the dead novelist's works, and then burst into a powerful tribute to Zola's part in the Dreyfus affair, and a denunciation of his enemies.

He said he would not maintain a cowardly silence before the coffin of his friend and speak of the sinister situation in the country when the populace, misled by monstrous lies and excited by odious declamations, believed it had betrayed and felt exasperated. Then Zola wrote to the president of France that terrible letter in which he denounced forgery and felony. M. France then recalled the yells of rage and shouts of "Death," which had pursued Zola to the law court during the long trial, which he said had been judged in voluntary ignorance of the case, on false testimony and amid the rattling of swords. In these days, continued M. France, many good citizens despaired of the salvation of the fatherland and of the moral fortune of the country; but all was saved; Zola's courageous words had awakened France.

Applause broke frequently from M. France's hearers during his speech, and the crowd at the entrance of the cemetery heard and re-echoed it.

Labor's Tribute to the Dead.

At the conclusion of the oration the relatives of the deceased novelist grouped themselves beside the coffin and a monster procession, composed mainly of members of labor organizations was allowed to enter the cemetery and file past the body. A majority of those who marched wore a red flower, the Socialist emblem, in their buttonholes; others wore bouquets of violets. Each delegation brought a wreath and deposited it beside the coffin. A deputation of miners in their working costumes carried a bunch of flowers fastened to a pole. The people plucked the flowers and ferns which had been strewn on the coffin during the ceremony and carried them away as souvenirs until none was left. After the march the coffin was placed in a temporary vault.

The proceedings were perfectly orderly until the delegations left the cemetery. Then several of the leading actors in the Dreyfus affair, such as Col. Picquart, Maitre Labori and M. Jaures, were recognized and loudly cheered. Maitre Labori, who was greatly excited, addressed a few words to the crowd; but, fearing that his words would lead to trouble, the police induced him and Col. Picquart to enter the lodge at the gate of the cemetery and remain there until the crowd had dispersed.

A few scuffles occurred on the Boulevard de Clichy. Groups of Socialists marched by, singing "The Garmagnole," and Nationalists responded with counter cries, but the imposing force of guards and police prevented serious collisions. A policeman was wounded during one row. A few arrests were made, but the prisoners were afterward released.

MORPHINE VICTIM DIED IN HOSPITAL

KEELEY CURE PHYSICIAN KILLED BY OVERDOSE.

Little Girl Succumbed to Burns. McKeesport Man's Fatal Fall. Other Coroner's Cases.

Dr. J. A. Smith of No. 4246 Fifth avenue, who was found in an unconscious condition in Wilkinsburg Friday afternoon, died yesterday morning at the Mercy hospital. A post mortem examination was held by Coroner's Physician Dr. Walter E. McCandless, and it was found that he had died from an overdose of morphine. His body was identified by his brother, Albert P. Smith of Waynesburg.

Dr. Smith was one of the corps of physicians at the Keeley institute. He was addicted to the use of morphine. There were many marks of the injector found on his body by the coroner's physician. Friday afternoon he was riding on a street car in Wilkinsburg, and the conductor put him off at Center avenue, thinking that he was intoxicated. He sat on the curb and became unconscious. He was then sent to the Mercy hospital, where it was learned that he had taken an overdose of morphine. He lingered until yesterday morning and died. He was 30 years old and married.

Child Died of Burns.

Myrtle Elizabeth Ludolff, 2 years old, of East street, Allegheny, died at the home of her parents yesterday morning of scalds received Saturday while playing in front of a stove. The little girl was sitting in a high chair in the kitchen. Her mother was working about the place. In her efforts to reach the stove she overturned the chair and fell forward against a kettle of hot water, which upset on her. Her arms and face were frightfully scalded. Physicians were sent for and she seemed to be improving. During the night she was seized with spasms and died yesterday morning.

After traversing the same path by day and night for 14 years in order to reach Fifth avenue by a short cut, Stevenson School, aged 50 years, of Chester avenue, McKeesport, made a misstep Saturday night and fell a distance of 35 feet to the bottom of Anderson Sole's stone quarry, where his body was found yesterday morning.

School was born in Switzerland and had resided in McKeesport for 20 years. He was employed in the National Tube works. He is survived by his widow and five children.

Crushed by Ore.

Stephen Yamits, aged 50, an employe at the Carrie furnace, was crushed under an ore hoisting machine at 7 o'clock last night, and instantly killed. The elevator loaded with several tons of ore lodged at the top of the hoist. Yamits went underneath to repair the machine, when the cage fell upon him, crushing him beyond recognition.

John Zurick, 42 years old, a Hungarian who was injured at the Eliza furnace on September 10 and had his back broken, died at the Mercy hospital yesterday morning of his injuries. He was crushed by a quantity of ore falling on him. He said at the hospital he had no relatives in this country.

Andrew Blose, 31 years old, of Donora, died at the Mercy hospital yesterday of alcoholism. He had been working at Braddock and was admitted to the hospital on Thursday, suffering from the effects of alcohol. He was identified by his brother, who had not seen him in over a year.

MURDERED BY TRAMPS.

Fireman on B. & O. Found Dying With Pockets Empty.

PIEDMONT, W. VA., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Frank W. Weaver of Tunnelton was probably murdered by tramps on a Baltimore & Ohio freight train on the 17-mile grade near Piedmont last night. He fired on the road, but he drew about $60 Saturday and started for Fairmont.

He was found early this morning with his skull fractured and only 54 cents in his pocket. He died soon after being found. He boarded at Cumberland, Md., with his brother, Engineer Gordon Weaver. His remains were sent home.

"My Dear Judge—My wife has left my bed and board and is at present living in Yates county, which fact is known to everybody. I want a divorce, and if you will send me a bill by return mail it will be greatly appreciated."

The letter came from a man living in a neighboring county. He has not yet received his "bill."

Steamer on Shoals.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 5.—The Merchants and Miners steamship Dorchester, Capt. Foster, from Providence for Baltimore, went ashore near Poplar Island, in the Chesapeake bay, at 3.30 this morning, supposedly because of heavy weather. Tugs and lighters left here this afternoon to assist in floating the vessel.

Excursion Train Delayed.

A slight accident near Finleyville last night delayed traffic on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for two hours. At the Baltimore & Ohio offices in Pittsburgh it was said that the tank of an engine pulling a train loaded with G. A. R. excursionists had been partly derailed. No cars left the track.

DYNAMITE USED IN COAL REGION

Section of Philadelphia & Reading Track Blown Up Near New Philadelphia.

TROOPS GUARD ROAD

Alleged Plot to Tear Up New Jersey Central Rails—1,200 Rounds of Shotgun Ammunition Found in Home of Striker.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Tamaqua, Pa., Oct. 5.—Early this morning a section of track on the Silver Creek branch of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad, was blown up with dynamite. The explosion shook the houses in New Philadelphia creek. When the workmen's train reached the scene of the explosion this morning a force of 50 deputies were on hand to escort them to the colliery.

Last night the officials of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company learned that a plot was on foot to tear up the New Jersey Central railroad tracks at a point between the No. 4 and the No. 12 collieries. Two companies of the Twelfth regiment were called out. They guarded the tracks all night.

SCRANTON, PA., Oct. 5.—Just before daybreak this morning a squad of Thirteenth regiment men, stationed near the Grassy Island colliery, came across an Italian striker named Guiseppe Papriello prowling about the outpost with a shotgun. He fired in the direction in which the soldiers were approaching, afterwards alleging he was shooting at a bird. Col. Watres had received information that Papriello was receiving arms and ammunition, and this evening a detachment of two companies was sent to his house. The soldiers found there 1,200 rounds of cartridges for shotguns. No arms were found, however. Papriello was turned over to Sheriff Schadt.

Twice during last night sentries about the Thirteenth's camp were stoned, and early in the evening a train bearing troops from Olyphant to Birdseye encountered a pile of rocks and a felled tree across the tracks.

SHENANDOAH, PA., Oct. 5.—Peter Macofsky, a non-union workman, was severely beaten today by a mob on West Center street. He escaped and sought refuge in the house of a friend. The crowd surrounded the house, but were dispersed by a squad of soldiers, who escorted Macofsky to his home.

Gen. Gobin, in command of the state troops in the strike region, said today that additional soldiers would be sent to Lackawanna county if there should be a repetition of the recent riotous demonstrations.

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 5.—Rain fell continuously today making things around the camp of the soldiers rather unpleasant. Excepting a little trouble at Kingston, across the Susquehanna river from this city tonight there has been no disorder in this territory. The report received at the sheriff's office was that while a christening was in progress at the home of a non-union man in Kingston, a party of men attempted to break up the celebration. In the mix-up that followed a lamp was overturned and the house set on fire. The flames were quickly extinguished without serious damage.

During the melee the son of the non-union man fired several shots, one of the bullets striking a union man who lives next door. His injuries are not serious. The son who fired the shot was badly used up.

When the sheriff heard of the trouble he notified Col. C. Bow Dougherty of the Ninth regiment, who took a battalion to Kingston. He found the town quiet and returned to camp with his men.

It has been decided by the authorities to keep a battalion of the Ninth at Plymouth and the troops were sent there tonight.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Oct. 5.—If the orders of officials of the United Mine Workers are obeyed, 4,200 miners in the employ of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company will be idle tomorrow. The strike inaugurated several days ago on account of the failure of the company to deduct $1 from the miners' wages without a written consent from each miner has extended to the Blocton and Blue Creek fields.

MENACE FROM LABOR.

Philadelphia Central Union Claims Constitution Forbids Railroads from Operating Mines.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—The Central Labor union today called upon Gov. Stone to end the coal strike without further quibbling, and pointed out an article of the constitution of Pennsylvania which, to the minds of the union, forbids railroads to operate coal mines.

Joseph P. Allen, business agent of the Journeymen House Painters' association, submitted the resolutions, and, after a two-hour discussion, bearing exclusively upon the coal strike, they were indorsed unanimously. A committee, consisting of Ernest Kraft, Edward Moore, Edward J. Brown, Joseph B. Allen and Frank Feeney, was appointed to convey the resolutions to Gov. Stone and they will go to Harrisburg tomorrow.

APPEAL TO MORGAN.

Magazine Editor Suggests It After Interviews With Him and President Mitchell.

OMAHA, NEB., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—John Brisbin Walker, editor of the Cosmopolitan, who passed through here today, sent a long telegram to President Roosevelt, suggesting that the anthracite coal strike be settled by Mr. Michell and his associates, placing their cause in the hands of J. P. Morgan.

He says he has interviewed both Morgan and Mitchell and believes Morgan would personally bring about a satisfactory adjustment if he is permitted to handle it.

TIP FROM JAMES J. HILL.

He Says Privately the Strike Will End About Middle of October.

ST. PAUL, MINN., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—James J. Hill, who returned home last week from New York, has told a few of his personal friends that the big coal strike will be ended about the middle of October, and that the strikers will lose in the struggle. While he declines to discuss the matter publicly he has not hesitated to talk on it privately.

His opinion is understood to be based on information received from the big financial magnates.

TWIN BABIES GAIN STRENGTH WITH OVEN AS INCUBATOR.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—That an oven makes a good baby incubator has been proven by the fact that the twin babies of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Simmons have been put in an oven for a period of three weeks, during which their lives seemed to hang by a thread.

The infants were born three weeks ago. One weighed 3½ and the other 3 pounds. Each was 16 inches long and a girl. The physician declared it was practically impossible to keep life in the two frail little bodies, but said it might be possible to nurse them to strength and life if an incubator could be procured at once.

Of course, there was none to be had at once, but a black mammy who attended the mother of the infants said she would try the oven. Accordingly the range oven was fitted up as an incubator and the tiny infants were laid in the funny baby house, which was carefully watched night and day and the heat kept at the same temperature.

For three weeks the little girls lay in their basket inside the oven. Now they are gaining strength and vitality every day and soon will be strong enough to lie by their mother's side.

STRIKE LEADERS TIGHTEN LINES

President Mitchell Talks of Defense Fund With President Russell of Illinois.

MORE MONEY TO COME IN

Representative of Labor Commissioner Wright Calls at Headquarters—Guarded Talk at Sunday Cabinet Meeting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 5.—The Washington conference between President Roosevelt, the coal operators and the representatives of the anthracite coal mine workers having been without result, the strike leaders are now engaged in tightening up their lines and preparing themselves to combat any movement by the operators to break the ranks of the strikers.

The first step in this direction was taken today, when W. R. Russell, president of district No. 12, of the miners' union, which comprises the entire state of Illinois, came here by direction of President Mitchell, to discuss relief measures. Mr. Russell had a conference lasting several hours with his chief, and at its conclusion it was announced that steps would immediately be taken to carry out a plan by which the relief fund from Illinois, at least, will be increased. What the plan is both Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Russell declined to say.

Western Operators in Sympathy.

President Russell also said the soft coal operators are in sympathy with the strikers in this state. He said these operators believed the union was a good thing for both the men and the employers, because since the organization was recognized in the western country conditions have been considerably improved. President Russell intimated that some of the coal operators in the west have shown their sympathy with the hard coal miners in a substantial way.

Walter E. Weyle, who has done considerable work for United States Commissioner of Labor Carroll D. Wright in the anthracite fields, spent about three hours with President Mitchell this afternoon. Mr. Weyle being so closely identified with Wright, it was surmised that he may have carried some messages to Mr. Mitchell from Washington, but both gentlemen denied that the visit had any significance.

During the afternoon Mr. Mitchell received about a half dozen telegrams

Mitchell Talks Guardedly.

When asked in the presence of Mr. Weyle what he heard from President Roosevelt, Mitchell's reply was:

"Why do you ask, what have you heard?"

He was informed that the president and his cabinet had held a long conference today on the coal strike, and he was asked if he had heard from the president's cabinet. His answer this time was:

"I have not heard from the cabinet."

"Have you heard directly or indirectly from Commissioner Wright?"

"I don't care to say anything."

Mr. Mitchell was much interested in what took place at Washington, but had nothing to say regarding the proposed plans for ending the strike.

The beginning of the sixth month of the strike shows no material change in the situation. The operators told President Roosevelt on Friday that 17,000 men are at work, and that 15 per cent of the normal coal production is being mined.

Statistics Are Stretched.

President Mitchell tonight denied that such a number of men are mining coal. He said the operators are including in the 17,000 all the engineers, firemen and pump runners (of whom there are about 9,000), fire bosses, foremen, carpenters, clerks and all other employes. He also denied that 15 per cent of the normal production is being sent to market, and said if the statement were true "the operators owe it to the public to sell the coal at the normal prices instead of charging dealers $15 to $20 a ton."

Mitchell says he has no apprehension of the strikers breaking away. He claims the companies are keeping a constant pressure on the workers to return, but without success.

At Drifton, he said, the coal company officials made a canvass of that community and found only one boy, the son of a non-union man, who was willing to return.

To Meet Manufacturers.

The three anthracite district presidents will arrive here tomorrow for a conference with their chief. Tomorrow night the four will leave for Buffalo, where they will meet a committee from the National Association of Manufacturers, which organization hopes to be able to devise some plan by which the mining of coal can be resumed. There was a rumor here tonight that while at Buffalo the strike leaders will hold a conference with bituminous operators, but this was denied by Mr. Mitchell. National Secretary-Treasurer Wilson of the miners' union, will also attend the meeting.

A telegram was received at strike headquarters today announcing that the strike of the employes of the Kanawha and Hocking Valley Coal Company, numbering between 5,000 and 6,000 men in West Virginia, has ended satisfactorily to both sides. The men, it was announced, have been granted a nine-hour day, will be paid for 2,000 pounds to the ton, will have the right to employ their own checkweighmen and will not be compelled to deal in company stores.

Among the visitors at strike headquarters today was Henry F. Tiepke, commissioner of industrial statistics of the state of Rhode Island. He was accompanied by a stenographer and spent about an hour with President Mitchell.

Benefit for Strikers.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 5.—Three thousand people crowded into a local theater tonight to attend a vaudeville performance for the benefit of the striking miners. Probably $2,000 will be the net receipts. President Sol Sontheimer of the United Trades and Labor Council made a brief address.

Members of the Ohio Federation of Labor, which meets in Cambridge Tuesday, will introduce a resolution asking the American Federation of Labor to assess its 1,500,000 members 10 cents a week for the benefit of the striking coal miners. The resolution will be strongly urged. If the matter is acted favorably upon a fund of $150,000 weekly will be raised.

The United Trades and Labor Council of Cleveland has contributed $500 per week to the strike fund of the miners.

ETHICAL SIDE OF STRIKE.

Dr. Lyman Abbott States the Moral Phase of the Problem.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—"Down at the root of this coal strike we are confronted with the great question of how shall a great people, without a king to coerce them, without a state church to exercise its power over their conscience; how shall a great liberty-loving people live peaceably and in accord and in fellowship one with another. It is not an economic question more than one of ethics," said the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott of Brooklyn in Battell chapel of Yale university today.

"How shall we legislate so that every man shall look to the things of his own and not at the property of his neighbor in order that he shall get that other man's property?" continued Dr. Abbott. "What we need just now is not ministers to teach economics, for they do not know any more about economics than a great many other men in the community; but we do want the minister to understand what brotherhood means, what it means to deal fairly and justly and do mercy."

REBELS CAPTURE CABINET MEMBER

TOWN UNDER SIEGE AND FIGHTING GOING ON

Colombians Very Angry at Admiral Casey's Order to Panama Railroad.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
(Copyright, 1902, by New York Herald Co.)

KINGSTON, JAMAICA, Oct. 5.—The steamship Para reports a desperate condition of affairs at Santa Marta, Colombia. Revolutionary forces are strongly intrenched outside of the town and they have mounted quick-firing guns. Last week they captured Senor Lafores, minister of state of Colombia.

Colombian government troops have been hurried from the isthmus. The rebels have prevented reinforcements coming by the Magdalena river. Fighting is taking place along the river.

Guns are being imported by the Colombian government from England for the campaign on the isthmus.

COLON, Oct. 5.—Under recent orders issued by Rear Admiral Casey, who is at Panama on the battleship Wisconsin, no Colombian military officers or troops or arms and ammunition will be allowed to be transported across the isthmus by rail unless by special permission. This order ignores the passes issued by the railroad company.

Exchange at Barranquilla is rising by leaps and bounds. An American dollar is now worth $85 in Colombian paper currency.

Instructions brought by Rear Admiral Casey may result in serious complications. Last Friday Gen. Salazar received a communication from Acting United States Consul Ehrman, saying Admiral Casey would not permit the transportation of armed or unarmed military employes of the government or of war material of any kind by the railroad. Gen. Salazar up to yesterday had not answered this letter. He was presumably awaiting the result of the conference with Admiral Casey, which occurred yesterday on board the Wisconsin.

Gen. Salazar complained that the American order was an infringement upon Colombian sovereignty.

Admiral Casey answered that he was complying with instructions received. He said he regretted he had been compelled to take these measures, but he considered them necessary to the protection of free transit across the isthmus. Admiral Casey said he would consult Washington and see what could be done in the matter.

It is the general impression in Colombian circles that Admiral Casey has misinterpreted his instructions.

It is feared that the complication may affect the vote of the Colombian congress on the canal bill.

BOYCOTT ON CLOTHING.

Two Chicago Labor Unions Lock Horns and Nearly 4,000 Persons Are Affected.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A boycott, which will throw nearly 4,000 workers out of employment, is to be begun here tomorrow. The movement has been instituted by the custom cutters and trimmers, who hereafter will refuse to cut clothing for shops employing members of the Special Order of Clothing Makers.

The cutters and trimmers are affiliated with the United Garment Workers, and it is to assist the latter body in its fight against the Special Order that the action is to be taken.

The garment workers claim exclusive jurisdiction over the industry of making men's and boys' clothing, and fought hard to prevent the granting of a charter to the other union by the American Federation of Labor. Unsuccessful there, they have been laying plans to defeat the rival organization by coercive means.

Nearly all the large clothing factories of Chicago will be affected by the boycott and the officials of the union say that any attempt to have the cutting done by non-union workmen will result in a general strike.

HANDS ARE UP.

Chief of Police of Minneapolis Says His Force Is Inadequate to Cope With Burglars.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Oct. 5.—Police Supt. Waite tonight issued a warning to the public that his force was "notoriously inadequate" to cope with burglars and porch climbers, now at work in this city.

The thieves have secured fully $10,000 in plunder during the last four days, the latest victim being Thomas Lowry, a railroad magnate, whose home was robbed of $2,000 in jewelry last night.

Superintendent Waite's warning to the public is accompanied by suggestions from the chief of detectives as to the best method of frustrating burglaries, until the police force can be sufficiently augmented, better to protect the residence districts.

COAL IS OFFERED TO GOVERNMENT

New York Woman Would Have President Become Mine Operator.

VILLAGE GETS FREE FUEL

Mayor Donates Growing Timber and Residents at Once Shoulder Their Axes—Shenango Valley Sheet Mill Closed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Another offer of coal lands has been made to President Roosevelt to relieve a possible coal famine. Mrs. Johanna C. Samuels, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., and Washington, D. C., but who has been in New York for several months organizing a railroad and other projects, has written to the president offering him a tract of mining land in Kentucky, to be mined by the government without compensation to the donor, during the continuance of the strike. Mrs. Samuels said to a reporter today:

"I am making the offer simply because the property is idle. It is no expense to me at the present time, and I would be at no loss if a quantity of the coal is mined. I do not ask one cent from the government or any favors. I will leave the arrangements of all details entirely to the president and let him do as he sees fit."

Free Wood for Whole Village.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., Oct. 5.—Mayor Drake of Lincoln, N. J., president of a real estate company, today offered free of charge to the residents of Lincoln three acres of standing hard wood timber, owned by the company, and located on the outskirts of the village. The only condition is that the timber must be cut down, cut into cord wood lengths and stacked. Then it will be distributed to the townspeople.

The offer was at once accepted, almost every family providing at least one worker, and by afternoon the cutting of the trees began. There are 300 inhabitants in the village and it is figured that there is enough wood in the tract to do them for the winter, should it become necessary to keep up the consumption of it.

The same company owns five acres of wood land in the Thirteenth ward of Trenton and another tract near Plainfield. Mr. Drake announced that the timber on these would be donated to the poor of the cities mentioned.

Cincinnati Coal Famine.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5.—It is expected that the coal famine here will be relieved the coming week, by the present rise in the Ohio river, which will bring an abundance of fuel from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio. Coal fleets in the Kanawha river and at Pittsburgh are ready to move. Navigation was resumed partially today.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Oct. 5.—The Shenango valley steel mill closed down at midnight, on account of inability to secure coal for the boilers. The plant employs about 1,000 men. The order was unexpected. All the industrial plants in the Shenango valley are having trouble in securing fuel.

MUST RUN CARS SAYS THE MAYOR

ORDERS RAILWAYS COMPANY TO END STRIKE

Notice in New Orleans Papers Offers Small Concession to Men Out.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5.—The condition of inactivity that has characterized the street car strike for eight days will undergo a change tomorrow. Mayor Capdevielle notified the railways company tonight that it must operate its cars upon all lines by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. While the alternative action of the city authorities is not stated in the letter, it is understood that steps may be taken to attack the franchises of the company.

The company sent advertisements to the papers tonight, offering 20 cents an hour to experienced motormen and conductors. While not directed to the strikers, the advertisement is evidently intended as a concession to them, as it is an advance of 2 cents an hour on what they were getting on the old contract. It is understood that the company has received nearly 200 applications under the calls printed two days ago.

It is positively asserted by the company that its cars will be run tomorrow. At the first show of violence a call will be made for special police, and if a sufficient force shall not be obtainable the governor will be called upon for troops.

The telephone cable containing 42 wires and connecting all the barns and offices of the railways company was cut last night. The trolley feed wires were cut in several new places during the night.

Strikers Wreck 28 Cars.

GENEVA, Oct. 5.—A meeting today of the striking employes of the street car line led to serious rioting. Twenty-eight cars were wrecked and the police had difficulty in restoring order. Many arrests were made.

INVASION FROM IRELAND.

Joseph Cavanaugh to Bring Over Athletes Seeking New Honors. Proposes Gaelic League.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Joseph Cavanaugh of Buffalo, the well-known authority of Gaelic affairs, met Senator Victor J. Dowling and Secretary James E. Sullivan here today, the object being to formulate plans for organizing an American Gaelic Athletic association for the government of American sports.

Cavanaugh says the idea is to have each state where Gaelic football is played, play its open championships in the spring of the year and in the fall play for the national, and he has guaranteed the cooperation of the teams from Buffalo, Syracuse and Albany.

Cavanaugh will sail next week for a two months' visit in Ireland and while there will make arrangements for an invasion of this country with a team of hurlers, football players and prominent athletes.

W. & J. FOLLOWERS ARE ENCOURAGED

FOOTBALL GAME OF SATURDAY GIVES CAUSE.

Welty Makes Hit With Spectators and Others Show Some Good Work.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 5.—Hope is once more revived among the followers of the Washington and Jefferson football team as a result of the game with Marietta college team on Saturday afternoon at College park. The local team put up at times a magnificent article of ball and their work was a surprise to the fans who had watched the practice throughout the week.

In spite of the wet weather and the slippery condition of the ball, very little fumbling was in evidence, and the coaching it has given the players in regard to holding fast to the ball in practice was productive of good results. McDonough, the little quarterback, in running the ball back from a kick-off, once changed the ball three times while dodging the Marietta team and when tackled still had fast hold of the pigskin. All the players showed greatly improved form in this respect and when a runner got hold of the oval he held on to it like grim death.

For the first time yesterday the famous Harvard tackle back play was used and the men took hold of it in first-class style. Coach Greene said after the game that they executed the play very satisfactorily.

Welty Makes a Hit.

The work of Welty at halfback has revealed the fact that in him W. & J. has one of the best men at that position who ever played here. Welty hits the line like a battering ram, runs low, and like Montgomery of last year's team, has the faculty of getting away from a man when tackled. His work yesterday was first-class, and in all probability he will be retained at the position.

In a fierce scrimmage yesterday he had his nose broken, and McFarland, another half, sustained an injured ankle, and both may be out of the practice for a few days.

W. & J.'s line in yesterday's game showed up wonderfully strong, and it is the general belief here that with practice it will be as strong as the line of last year. All the men played their positions well. Sherrard, the big halfback, was used time and again in the game with the Marietta team, and seldom failed to make a good gain when given the ball. The back field men, however, still have a tendency to run too high, and the coach will attempt to eliminate this during the practice this week, which will be hard.

The game next Saturday is considered the first big contest of the season. It is with the Western Reserve university of Cleveland, and in former years this team has given the local collegians hard struggles on the gridiron.

Now for the Tricks.

W. & J. in the two games played thus far this season has used straight football almost exclusively, but during the practice at college park this week several trick plays will be used which, it is believed, will be valuable in winning the big games. Coach Greene and Capt. Hayes said today that they were very much encouraged over the showing made yesterday and that the coaching of the players this week would be along the same lines as that of last week. Prowitt made a much better impression at fullback than was expected, and he will be given plenty of practice in kicking the coming week. It is also likely that the line-up will remain as it is for some time, and the change contemplated by Coach Greene last week will not be made.

QUO WARRANTO IS THREATENED BY THE MINERS

Secretary Wilson Says Companies Have Violated Charters.

ATTORNEY BRENNEN THINKS LIKEWISE

Monster Mass Meeting Gives Strike Fund a Good Start by Collection.

PLEAS FOR MINERS' CAUSE

Secretary-Treasurer William B. Wilson of the United Mine Workers of America, addressing a great mass meeting to aid the striking anthracite miners yesterday, declared that quo warranto proceedings should be instituted against the coal corporations, as abrogating the terms of their charters. He did not declare that the miners' organization would make such a move, but said that inasmuch as the operators had thrown down a gauntlet in attacking the miners' organization as an illegal one, it is indicated to the miners to fight the corporations in the courts.

W. J. Brennen, the Pittsburgh attorney who represents several of the leading labor organizations of the country, declared that inasmuch as the directors of the coal-carrying railroads and presidents of the coal corporations were in instances one and the same, they are indirectly violating the constitution of the state, and that their charters could be annulled for this alone.

Brennen Says "Conspiracy."

He declared that heads of the coal corporations could be indicted for conspiracy under the laws of the state, and asserted that the duty of the attorney general of Pennsylvania is to call for the forfeiture of the charters of the coal companies, on the ground that their terms are being violated.

The mass meeting at the Avenue theater drew an assemblage which filled the house, about 2,000 people having been auditors during the afternoon, while many turned away because the theater was overcrowded. A collection taken to start the strike fund netted $636 43, and a committee of 100 was appointed to continue the work of collection. This committee will meet to perfect arrangements for its work on next Friday night.

Urgent work with which President John Mitchell of the miners is engaged at the strikers' headquarters in Wilkesbarre prevented his coming to address the mass meeting. In his place the general organization of the miners was represented by William B. Wilson, the secretary and treasurer.

Wilson Plead for Miners.

Wilson spoke for over an hour. The stories he told won the sympathies of his hearers, and he closed his address with the proposal that the coal corporations be attacked as illegal institutions.

He recited the history of the miners' organization, especially in its relations to the anthracite operations of Pennsylvania. He told of the many practices in operation at the anthracite colliers, to which the miners and their organization object. He asserted that the 10 per cent wage advance which the anthracite men secured in 1900 has been lost to all practical purposes since, because the wave of prosperity which has gone over the country has forced the cost of living much higher. "Under the conditions now, the wage rates are really 20 per cent less than when the advance was granted," he said. "There has been disorder among the strikers, but it is nothing compared to what has been asserted. It is well known that we caution the men to avoid trouble as threatening their cause.

Markle Gives the Lie.

"John Markle, representing the so-called independent operators, told President Roosevelt in his statement to him that 21 men have lost their lives through the lawlessness of the miners. We can show that this is untrue. In fact, there is less lawlessness now in the anthracite regions than before the strike started. We are prepared to show that only seven of the men who have taken strikers' places have lost their lives in connection with the strike. Of these the death of only two is charged to striking miners; three were killed by the coal and iron police; for the death of one a butcher and saloonkeeper are held, and the seventh met his death by being run down by a train.

"When President Baer of the Reading interests made his declarations at Washington that our president, John Mitchell, is not to be dealt with as a non-resident of this state he uttered a flimsy excuse. Of all the coal presidents at the White House last Friday only two are residents of this state.

Will Not Yield.

"Let me assert again for the United Mine Workers of America, that there will be no resumption of work in the anthracite collieries till the manhood of the miners and some of their rights are recognized."

When the mass meeting assembled, Calvin Wyatt, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, moved that M. M. Garland, surveyor of the port of Pittsburgh and former president of the Amalgamated association, be made chairman. This was voted unanimously. The Rev. Dr. E. R. Donehoo of the West End Presbyterian church offered prayer and the anthracite miners' glee club and the Harris quartet sang.

Andrew C. Robertson, representing Recorder J. O. Brown of Pittsburgh, made an address of welcome. The questions at issue go beyond the demand of the miners, he said; that the issue is now on the challenge of the operators against the right of men to form labor organizations. The question is now agitating the country from coast to coast, he said, and labor has the same right to protect itself by organization as has capital.

James Francis Burke, who addressed the meeting, concluded as follows:

"As the government itself has no more rights than the people that created it and therefore could not and would not assume the power to destroy the people, the corporations created by the commonwealth certainly have no greater power than the commonwealth itself, and therefore cannot arrigate to themselves any such powers as will either injure the government itself or the people, of whom that government is constituted and by whom it is maintained. And wise corporations never do assume this power.

"It was to prevent the infliction of that injury that President Roosevelt, who stands for the orderly conduct and material prosperity of both the creatures of God and the creatures of the commonwealth, summoned to Washington the representatives of each.

"This conference is certainly the beginning of the end. Wisdom and peaceful counsel will prevail. The American people can be trusted to right every wrong with which they are confronted. This is still thank God, a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, and not a government of trusts, by trusts and for trusts."

Arbitration Scorned.

William J. Brennen, in his address, said that since the first labor organization was launched it and all that have followed stood ready to discuss the rights of the men along with those of the employer and were always ready to arbitrate differences and always had something worthy of arbitration. "In this case," he said, "the operators assert that there is nothing to arbitrate. The men want shorter hours; is not that a question for arbitration? The men want better wages; is that not a question to arbitrate? The men say that they should only be asked to mine an honest ton for a ton's pay, and now they often mine 2,000 pounds. In the face of the conditions in the anthracite fields the operators claim a divine right in being placed where they are, and the conclusion is that their methods are therefore right and not worthy of arbitration."

The Hon. Andrew Fulton was to have addressed the meeting, but he was called away by illness in his family. Before going he contributed $10 to the miners' fund with the understanding that he will add $5 weekly till the strike is over.

Resolutions Adopted.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted, which recited the differences between the miners and operators. They were in part as follows:

Whereas, Differences such as those involved in this controversy have been arbitrated and decided in every civilized country where mining and manufacturing is carried on, to-wit:

1. An increase in wages for men employed on piecework.

2. A reduction of the hours of labor for men employed by the day.

3. Payment for a legal ton of coal.

4. That the coal mined shall be honestly weighed and correctly recorded.

5. The incorporating in the form of agreement the wages that shall be paid and the conditions of employment that shall obtain for a specific period; and,

Whereas, These demands are honest, fair and just and their denial and the refusal to treat with their employes except as individuals convicts the operators of desiring to continue to impose oppressive and unjust conditions upon their employes.

Combine Is Denounced.

We denounce the proposition of this combination, representing 95 per cent of the production of anthracite coal, wherein it refuses to treat with the representatives of the United Mine Workers union for the settlement of these differences, as inconsistent, inequitable and unjust and subversive of the right of labor to unite and be represented by its ablest leaders to meet, hear, argue and decide with the captains of capital, represented in the railroad and coal combinations, and, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend our most sincere sympathy to the oppressed but heroic miners who are struggling for the preservation of their union, the protection of their homes and the welfare of their families to the end that they may obtain a reasonable share of the fruits of their tiresome and dangerous employment.

Resolved, That this meeting extend to the struggling miners and their brave leaders its earnest support, morally and financially, and bid them God speed in their efforts for the improvement of their condition and the securing of their right to a fair day's wages for a fair day's work under tolerable conditions.

Resolved, That a committee be appointed, of which the chairman of this convention shall be a member, authorized and empowered to adopt ways and means of securing contributions for the support of the anthracite mine workers, battling for their rights and the interests of organized labor.

A vote was taken thanking President Roosevelt for the moral support implied in his conduct last week, and for his manliness, courage and sincerity of purpose in the effort to bring the opposing forces to enter a settlement.

The Committee.

Chairman M. M. Garland announced the following general committee on arrangements:

Rivers Are Rising.

At 9 o'clock last night the stage of water at Davis island dam was 4.3 feet and rising. There is a probability that a boating stage will be reached if any more rain falls in the next day or two.

NEWS FROM SUBURBS.

—A freight wreck occurred yesterday about 9:30 a. m. near Heidelburg on the Panhandle. The tracks were blocked for several hours. A locomotive, caboose and several cars were smashed.

—The services at the laying of the cornerstone of the new $8,000 parish school of the All Saints Roman Catholic church of West Etna, which were announced to be held yesterday, were postponed until next Sunday.

—The entire 16 cables in the McKeesport office of the C. D. & P. Telephone Company were burned off by a fire Saturday evening. The damage to the building was trivial, but every telephone in McKeesport and vicinity was cut out. Manager C. Z. Southers and a force of men went to work all night. By yesterday morning the entire damage was repaired. The task was a stupendous one from the fact that over 3,000 separate wires had to be spliced and insulated.

NEW TRUNK LINE TO PITTSBURGH

Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Begins Work on Another Road.

WABASH IS IN ALLIANCE

Route Will Do Away With Use of Pittsburgh & Western Tracks—Connects With Wabash at Pittsburgh.

In building its extension from Punxsutawney to the valley of the Kiskiminetas, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railway has begun the construction of its direct main line, between Pittsburgh and Buffalo, to be used when the old Pittsburgh & Western trackage agreement is withdrawn. The connecting link, between Allegheny and Blacklick, Indiana county, will complete the proposed system which will give the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh its own right of way from this city, through the rich coal fields of Central Pennsylvania direct to Buffalo and the ports of Lake Ontario, and join the new Wabash extension, which covers the southwestern part of the state.

Rapid progress is being made on the Indiana county branch, and next summer trains will be operated in the valley of Blacklick. Having completed this work, the next step to be taken will be to gain a new entrance into Pittsburgh and to connect with the lines of the Gould system in Fayette county. Preliminary surveys have been made and the route of the proposed extension has been carefully mapped out.

Saves Twenty Miles.

The trackage agreement with the Baltimore & Ohio for the use of the Pittsburgh Western line between Allegheny and Butler will expire within 15 years, and it is unlikely to be renewed. Furthermore, the proposed line via Indiana will give a route forward 20 miles shorter than that now used via Butler.

The connecting link, between Pittsburgh and the Indiana extension, will give practically an airline across Westmoreland county to the Allegheny river, scarcely 45 miles in length. It will connect at the junction of Blacklick and Twolick creeks, with the line which is now building, and will run on a line parallel and about 10 miles north of the Pennsylvania railroad to the Allegheny river between Ross and Oakmont. Following the river, it will reach Allegheny river where the road has already terminal facilities, and will connect with the Wabash through the bridge to be erected opposite Fourth street.

Using this for its main line, the distance from Allegheny to Punxsutawney would be less than 85 miles, while the route via Butler is 101 miles. The line from Punxsutawney to Butler would still be used for the heavy freight traffic, generating in the Beaver valley and points west, and as an outlet into the same region, for the coal developed in the virgin fields of Indiana county.

To Connect With Wabash.

From Blacklick another line which will form part of the great joint system with the Wabash will traverse the valley of the Loyalhanna and the foothills west of Chestnut ridge to Uniontown and the country southward, where connection will be made with the proposed line connecting with the Gould roads between the west and the Atlantic seaboard.

Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh engineers have made extensive surveys through the entire region, and the plans have been formulated from a thorough knowledge of the country to be traversed. Since the Pittsburgh & Western has been absorbed by the Baltimore & Ohio, the logical step for the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh has been admitted to be the building of its own line direct to Pittsburgh, without waiting for the expiration of the trackage agreement. The elaborate improvements and extensions planned by the Wabash expedited this decision, and the work will be carried forward in conjunction with that in Indiana county.

ON TO CHEBOYGAN.

Gould Engineers Are Mapping Out Several Railroad Extensions on Michigan Peninsula.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 5.—A Toledo man who has just returned from the Clergue country brings the news that Wabash engineers have toured the Upper Michigan peninsula, and are preparing blue prints of several proposed extensions of the Ann Arbor railway, a Gould line.

One of the new projected routes planned an extension of the Ann Arbor railway to Cheboygan, it is said. This extension was to be brought about either by building a new road, or buying the Detroit & Mackinac, and extending that line to Cheboygan.

At that city a line of car ferries would connect with Detour. From Detour the track would extend to the Soo.

BURGLARS LOOTED HOUSES IN BELLEVUE

Silverware, Jewelry and Valuables to the Value of $200 Were Taken.

Between the hours of 9:30 and 10 o'clock last night burglars entered the residence of W. H. Flack, in Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, and looted the house from top to bottom. They also entered the house of G. A. Gas, directly opposite. J. Breeding, who lives next door to the Flack family, heard a noise in the rear of his residence. When he went to investigate he found men working at the door with a drill. The alarm was first given by a small watch dog.

Mr. Breeding alarmed his neighbors and on investigating the work of the thieves was found. The way they worked is proof that they are not amateurs. In each instance they jimmied the rear doors. They took only good jewelry, leaving inferior articles. Mrs. Flack lost a valuable seal skin saoque, and silverware, money and jewels, to the value of $200 was taken.

Third Rail Kills Laborer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(Special.)—In an effort to save himself from falling from the elevated structure, as it afterward appeared, Charles Hearne, 51 years old, a laborer in the employ of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, grasped a deadly third rail at the Brooklyn terminal of the bridge this morning and was dead an instant later.

Think of such music for 25 cents admission! Damrosch orchestra, a celebrated New York soloist, the Pittsburgh Festival Chorus and a favorite local vocal artist. The New Exposition offers this for tonight.

BOY BURGLAR WAS CAUGHT IN THE ACT

John Fanary, Aged 12, Was Looting Grocery Cash Register When Observed.

Policeman William Campbell was passing the grocery store of W. J. Spahr, No. 6117 Penn avenue, early yesterday afternoon, when he noticed a small boy with a lighted candle in his hand peering into an open cash register on the counter inside the store.

When the officer tried the front door the boy blew out the light and scurried away, leaving the storeroom in darkness.

Word was sent to the East End police station, and Lieut. Robert Holmes, with a squad of policemen, soon had the store, both front and rear, surrounded.

Spahr was sent for and unlocked the door, admitting the police, who, after a search of considerable length, finally discovered the boy, hiding among some boxes in the rear of the store. He was dragged out and his pockets found to be bulging with stolen goods of every description, including some $20, the contents of the cash register.

The boy was sent to the East End station, where he said his name was John Farrany, and that his parents, who reside on Putnam street, were Italians. He is about 12 years old, and is thought to have gone in the store during the afternoon and hidden in the cellar until the store was closed.

SERMON ON COAL STRIKE.

Braddock Minister's Caustic Criticism of the Coal Operators.

The Rev. Nicholson Holmes, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Braddock, last night preached a sermon severely criticising the course of the coal operators in their refusal to negotiate with the miners toward a settlement of the strike in the anthracite region, quoting from his text, "I am doing a good work and will not come down." He spoke of Nehemiah as being a great leader in his day and asked who were to be the great leaders of tomorrow.

"Today we are given to understand that they are the coal barons who sneer at our chief executive and other men more eminent than themselves," declared Mr. Holmes. "The people are in the clutches of these men now, but they will rise supreme. It is only by the government exercising the right of eminent domain that this difficulty can be righted."

NOVEL CRUSADE ON SPEAKEASIES

Catholic Total Abstinence Union Has Scheme to Clean Up City.

MANY ARE STILL RUNNING

Moral Suasion and Influence of Church to Be Supplemented Whenever Necessary by Reports to Constables.

Moral suasion will be used to supplement the work of the Pittsburgh police in the suppression of illegal liquor traffic. The Total Abstinence Union of the Pittsburgh diocese of the Roman Catholic church will lend the helping hand and introduce some novel methods for the closing of speakeasies. Initiatory measures in the churche's crusade were taken yesterday by the St. Agnes branch of the Total Abstinence union.

There are over 2,000 members of the union in the Pittsburgh diocese and every branch in the city will be asked to join in the campaign. The members of the union believe that they have struck upon the best and most effectual means of coping with the question.

A meeting of the St. Agnes branch union was held yesterday in the assembly room of St. Agnes' church, Fifth avenue, and ways and means for closing the speakeasies in the Fourteenth ward were discussed.

Plan Was to Be Secret.

The members of the union are very much in earnest and an attempt was made to keep the plans secret until they would be ready to proceed against the violators of the liquor laws. Among those who took a part in the meeting was Bernard Coll, first vice president of the union. In outlining the plans of his fellow-workers, he said:

"We believe that the church can do more toward closing the doors of speakeasies than all the threats of the police bureau. However, we are not presuming to encroach upon the jurisdiction of Supt. McAleese, and shall work with his subordinates where it is possible.

"We do not accuse the police of playing politics in this crusade, but there is undoubtedly some much sentiment exercised in enforcing the law.

"The police have closed about 25 speakeasies here in the Fourteenth ward. We have secured the names and addresses of 22 others, who are doing business in full blast and who are protected by sentiment or misguided charity—I will not say of the police. Widows, cripples, the wives of worthless men, and old terriers, who are unwilling to work, conduct the illegal selling out here.

Wax Fat on Charity.

"They start in business with a case of beer and a jug of bad whisky. One Sunday's trade enables them to double their stock. Their fame spreads and they soon find a good trade and add fancy brands of intoxication on their shelves. The very people who give them their sympathy for sweet charity's sake, have less means than the speakeasy proprietors, who take in as much money in a single hour on Sunday as some of their respectable neighbors earn in a week.

"At length the speakeasy people win opulence. Their trade grows so rapidly and their money flows in so easily, that they become independent and wax influential in the entire community. It is at this point that political strength begins to manifest itself and the speakeasy becomes a most dangerous menace. Our plan is to prevent this by sending a letter to each of the proprietors, over the signatures of the officers of the union and the priest of the parish. We shall point out the evil that these people are propagating and ask them to close at once.

Constable's Aid to Be Asked.

"In a Catholic community like this, no other request should be necessary, but if any of the places are persistently kept open, we shall direct the ward constable to proceed against all the places to which we call his attention.

"We do not think it is the duty of the police alone to keep the city rid of these resorts. The constable, in his quarterly return to the court of quarter sessions, is bound to make a report of all disorderly places, and he violates the duties of his office every time he fails to make such report."

At yesterday's meeting, letters were drafted and when additional evidence is gathered, every violator of the liquor laws in the parish will be addressed in a courteous note, asking him to close his place at once. Those who do not obey will be reported to the constables of their respective wards and by him to the court, where in the light of publicity that will be turned on, political influence and charitable sentiment will be of little avail in averting the course of justice.

Better Street Car Service Pleases.

Residents of Wilkinsburg and vicinity are much pleased with the inauguration of a better street car service to the borough by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, effective yesterday. The Grant and Shady line that formerly ran only as far east as Shady avenue, now extends to the Colonial building in Hay street, Wilkinsburg, and the Liberty and Lincoln line, which heretofore stopped in East Liberty, now continues to Center street and Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg.

DEMOCRATS ARE MORE OBDURATE

May Not Accept Compromise in Third Legislative District.

J. A. MARTIN'S VIEWS

He Says Settlement Is Beyond His Power—Vote Is Evenly Divided and Democrats May Not Accept One Candidate.

If the spirit just now uppermost in the Third legislative district continues to prevail, there is grave danger for the Citizens legislative candidates in the district. Two Democrats have been placed on the ticket by the decision of the Dauphin county court, and there are already two Citizens candidates in the field. Unless one or the other ticket withdraws, or a compromise is effected, there will be three tickets in the field, the anti-machine vote will be divided and unless the supposed machine vote has been largely lost, the result will not be hard to divine. The candidates on the Citizens ticket are Samuel Mawhinney and B. F. Anderson; the Democratic candidates are John Whitney and O. K. Gardner.

The Citizens candidates were originally indorsed by the Boyle faction of the Democracy, but the nominations were contested in the Dauphin county court, which decided in favor of Gardner and Whitney, or the "Martin faction" candidates. Alderman John A. Martin, the leader of the faction, has been an anti-machine man since he entered politics, and as he is supposed to control his followers, it was thought that he would cause the withdrawal of Whitney and Gardner in favor of Mawhinney and Anderson.

May Be No Compromise.

Alderman Martin denies his ability to control his friends, but asserts that even were he in favor of withdrawing the Democratic candidates, it is now too late to do so, as the committee of five that nominated the men is not only in favor of having at least one Democrat on the fusion ticket, but is getting into a frame of mind that may preclude any compromise at all.

William B. Hayes, the Citizens leader in the Third district, was quoted as saying that there would be no compromise with the Democrats, that the Citizens party had a strong organization in the district and could elect its ticket without the aid of Martin and his friends. It was also said at the Citizens party headquarters, in Third avenue, that if Martin and his adherents were the machine opponents they claimed to be they would withdraw Gardner and Whitney and indorse the Citizens party candidates, because they could not afford, by obstinacy, to cause the election of Edlis and Cook, the machine candidates.

Democrats in Earnest.

"If the Citizens party really thinks that we are not in earnest in demanding that the fusion legislative ticket in the third district shall be represented by one Democrat out of the two candidates they are very much mistaken," said Alderman Martin. "I am not a member of our committee of five, and have no power over it, but I know from talks that I have had with the committeemen that they will insist on having one Democrat on the legislative ticket. In fact, from recent conversation, I should judge that the committee is getting into a frame of mind that bodes no good to compromise, and that it may ultimately decline to accept even one of the Citizens candidates.

"Do I think that by the running of three tickets the result will be the election of the ring candidates? I do, but if that deplorable result should ensue it will not be the fault of the Democrats of the district. The Citizens party knows that there is a strong feeling in this district for Democratic representation.

Vote Is Nearly Even.

"Speaking for myself, I would favor running two independent Republicans on the Citizens ticket, if I thought that would insure the defeat of the machine candidates, but there are too many Democrats to be considered. The anti-machine vote is so evenly divided among Democrats and anti-machine Republicans that with three tickets running the Democratic candidates will poll just as many votes as the Citizens party can, and Edlis and Cook will be elected.

"You know that there were rival Democratic conventions in this district. The Boyle faction, largely made up of ring Democrats, appointed a committee to name candidates, and the anti-ring Democratic faction also appointed a committee for the same purpose. The Boyle committee indorsed the Citizens candidates, the other committee was informed by the Citizens party that a Citizens party candidate would be withdrawn, if we wished, and a Democrat named.

Says Promise Was Broken.

"The Citizens party named a Democrat, who is now employed at the Citizens headquarters, and we accepted him. We made an appointment with the Citizens committee of 10 to close up the matter, having been informed that Mawhinney had resigned, but when we arrived at the headquarters we were told that no Democrat would be named. Thereupon our committee nominated Whitney and Gardner. We contested the Boyle faction's nominations, and the Dauphin county court decided in our favor.

"We are, however, for the Citizens party candidates in everything except the legislative ticket, in our district. The committee is still, I understand, in favor of a compromise, although some of the members are now talking of running both Democratic candidates."

A machine mass meeting will take place tonight in the machine auditorium, Sixth avenue and Cherry alley. The speakers will be James Francis Burke, Dr. A. J. Barchfeld, Henry Hall, W. H. Graham and others.

A machine mass meeting will be held this evening at Kincaid school house, North Versailles township, and Thomas M. Ford, Archibald Mackrell, Col. W. E. Thompson and Harry M. Scott will speak.

A meeting of the Jewish machine club of the county was held in the afternoon in Turner hall, Forbes street. Addresses were delivered by Adolph Edles, C. Samm and other leading members of the club. Resolutions were passed in which it was unanimously agreed to support the Republican state and the machine county ticket.

SEEKING AMERICAN MONEY.

It Is Wanted in India to Develop Vast Fields of Ore.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Now it is India that is looking to J. P. Morgan and American moneyed interests to help develop its mineral fields. Jamesby N. Tata, a Parsee merchant, whose house has a Wall street branch, arrived today from Havre.

"India," said Mr. Tata, "has vast fields of undeveloped minerals, and my chief object in coming here is to make a study of your methods of mining and reducing ores. I bring with me letters of introduction to Mr. Morgan and other capitalists and have strong hopes of interesting them."

THE PHIPPS FAMILY WINTERS IN INDIA

Will Sail in Middle of November—Playgrounds Ready for Their Purpose.

Henry Phipps, Jr., arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday morning for a short stay. It is said that the visit is not planned to develop anything new of a business or philanthropic character. On Thursday this former partner of Andrew Carnegie, whose gift of $100,000 to the South African sufferers from the Boer war was recently made public, will leave for Chicago, this trip likewise being devoid of special significance.

About the middle of November Mr. Phipps and his entire family will sail, to spend most of the winter in India. They will not return till late next spring, and soon afterwards they expect to take up their residence in the splendid mansion which Mr. Phipps is having built in Fifth avenue, New York city. The five children of Mr. Phipps, who will go on the trip to India, are John S., Hal C., Howard and Misses Amy and Helen.

The acres in Allegheny, which it was announced some time ago Mr. Phipps had decided to give for a playground for children, have been improved and are now ready to be given up for this purpose. They are at School and Robinson streets, in the region where Mr. Phipps spent his boyhood days.

Yesterday afternoon, accompanied by his secretary, he was driven about the city to view properties of which he is owner. One of these is at Sixth street and Duquesne way, where the big new Bessemer building is going up.

KOBBE ATTACKS LEACH IN THE MIMIC WARFARE

Army Problem Today Is Defense of Hastily Constructed Entrenchments of Engineers.

FORT RILEY, KAN., Oct. 5.—Sunday at Camp Root was devoted to the drying out process. The heavy clouds that have hung over the camp for the last four days cleared away during the night, and the sun was unobscured from dawn to sunset. The soldiers took advantage of the opportunity to air their damp bedding, while the officers contemplated the rapidly drying roads with great satisfaction, for the bright sun today means decent roads for marching in the morning and the resumption of maneuvers.

The military problem for tomorrow is the attack and defense of a position. Maj. Leach of the engineers will have command of the position. Gen. Kobbe will lead to the attacking force. The position is not to be heavily fortified, the terms of the problem calling for hastily constructed intrenchments.

PERSONALS.

"Cleveland has made elaborate preparations," said a leading hotel proprietor of that city at Union station last night, "for the reception of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts. All the hotels within several hundred miles of Cleveland have been notified that this ancient organization will be encamped with us for three days, and that accommodations in all the hotels of the city will be taken up. The encampment opens tomorrow and will be the greatest ever held in Cleveland. It will be a big social affair, and preparations for many elaborate entertainments have been arranged by the society people of Cleveland for the visiting artillerymen. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company is one of the oldest independent military organizations in the United States. Its history dates from revolutionary times, and it is one of the most exclusive military companies in the world. It is only a few years since the organization visited London, where it was the guest of members of the royal family. The company comprises about 80 members, and the uniform of the command is one of the handsomest worn by any military organization in this country.

Passenger travel was very heavy last night over the Baltimore & Ohio, and Pennsylvania railroads. Long before the regular eastern trains were scheduled to leave the stations were swarming with humanity. Most of the travelers were going to Washington, to visit the thirty-sixth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, and were taking advantage of the special rates made for the encampment. When the New York and Chicago limited pulled into Union station last night two large engines were attached to it. It is not often that the limited comes into the station with two engines, and some curiosity was manifested to know why they were there. It was explained that the company was returning all the extra engines it had to move the specials of the Grand Army, and was using the quickest methods possible.

George M. von Bonnhorst, who has been in the east on a business trip, returned to the city last night. Mr. von Bonnhorst said that his trip had no political significance.

GENERAL BOOTH HONORED BY ARMY

Eight Thousand People Gather at Academy of Music to Hear Him.

SCORES IN MERCY SEAT

Invitation to Be Saved Brings Ready Response from Audience—Great Mass Meeting Scheduled for Carnegie Hall.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Eight thousand people heard Gen. William Booth speak today at the Academy of Music. The rain had no effect in keeping either Salvation army people or the general public from the meetings. About one-third of those present wore Salvation army regalia. The meetings were opened by prayer, with Gen. Booth's address following. He spoke over an hour at each of three meetings.

It was announced that a monster meeting will be held tomorrow night in Carnegie hall. Mayor Low will preside.

Gen. Booth displayed wonderful energy throughout the fatiguing day's work. His voice, high-pitched, and slightly quavering, has great carrying power, and the speaker was distinctly heard throughout the auditorium.

At times, when he spoke with great fervor, his elocution was dramatic. He strode from one side to the other of the platform, gesticulating most of the time with his right hand.

When not preaching, he walked about the stage, or sat with his shoulders stooped, wrapped in a long military cloak. During the revival part of the meetings he frequently jumped from his seat, and both he and Col. Lawley talked at once. When the audience clapped hands to the tunes of the hymns, or waved handkerchiefs, Gen. Booth participated. The revival part of the program at the morning service resulted in 39 men and women kneeling at the mercy rail. Salvation Army officers were stationed in all parts of the auditorium to lead the people to the rail. Placards bearing the words: "To the mercy seat," were in all the aisles and corridors of the Academy. Twenty-two gave themselves up at the afternoon meeting and many at the evening services.

Gen. Booth was received with great applause on his first appearance at 11 o'clock.

"You know the purpose of my life," he said in opening his sermon. "It is to help men and women to their Lord. It is to glorify my Lord and Master. It is still strong within me. We want a great salvation day today. All who want it say Amen."

The answer was strong and fervent.

The morning theme was from Philippians iv:13: "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me."

Gen. Booth said in part: "This passage is remarkable, for Paul said he could do all things required of him. Perhaps you will say 'What can I do?' I will sum up what you can in one sentence. Meet the evil. Live holy, pure and upright in the world."

MARRIED AS DOCTOR PROBED FOR BULLET

Cowboy Winged by Girl's Father While Eloping, Gets His Bride.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HYANNIS, NEB., Oct. 5.—William Clark, a cowboy, eloped yesterday with Myrtle Shawberg, his employer's daughter, who lives near here. Shawberg saw them as they started and emptied his revolver at Clark, one bullet taking effect in the latter's hip. The couple got away, and reaching Hyannis, sent for a doctor and a preacher. While one probed for the bullet the other married them. Clark swooned from pain at one point in the ceremony.

The father arrived just as it was concluded and was sent away at the point of a gun in the hands of the minister. The girl was pledged to a man of her father's choice, but fell in love with Clark when the latter saved her life in a runaway.

BRADDOCK WOMAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Mrs. John Dell Refused to Tell How She Received Serious Wound.

Mrs. John Dell, the wife of a prominent Braddock contractor, was seriously wounded at 10 o'clock last night in her home, No. 1104 Braddock avenue. A bullet from a revolver of large caliber entered her right thigh, and, taking an upward course, may produce fatal results. Her husband, who was the only other person in the room at the time, said that the weapon was accidentally discharged in Mrs. Dell's hands. The woman refused to make a statement and the police will investigate the case.

Policeman John Meyers and some neighbors heard the shot and ran to the house. They found Mrs. Dell lying upon a bed unconscious. Drs. A. W. Schooley and Christian Hagey were called, but were unable to locate the bullet. When the woman regained consciousness she refused to tell how she came by her misfortune. She was sent to the Mercy hospital, where the X-rays will be used in probing for the bullet. Chief of Police William Bennett is investigating.

SHREWD CELESTIAL JUMPED THE BORDER

Young Chinaman Arrived in Wilmerding After a Journey of 12,000 Miles.

The Chinese colony of Wilmerding added another Celestial to its population on Friday last, when a 12-year-old native of the "Land of Flowers" arrived after the long journey from Hongkong. The lad is a cousin of Yee Sun, the 16-year-old Chinese boy, who until the arrival of his cousin, was the youngest native of China in this vicinity. The newcomer is a bright lad and made the trip from Hongkong to Pittsburgh, a distance of about 12,000 miles, unaccompanied. The point of his landing in this country has not been learned, but it is said to have been some seaport in Canada, from whence he came across the border, thus escaping the provisions of the Chinese exclusion act. The boy is also a cousin of Yee Gee, who has a laundry on Commerce street, Wilmerding, and who returned to his native land several years ago on a visit. The latter has a monopoly of the laundry business in Wilmerding.

PRAISED ROOSEVELT'S ACT.

John Thresher Talked of Attempt to Settle Strike.

"A New National Star" was the subject of a discourse yesterday by John Thresher, president of the Pittsburgh Christian Patriotic association in Assembly hall, Penn avenue. Mr. Thresher said in part:

"President Roosevelt has created a new star; to it he has pointed capital and labor; it is a star of peace and justice to guide them. That star has flashed its rays through all the civilized nations of the world. Capital and labor have met under new conditions. For the general good, the president has drawn into his presence both great powers. It was a wise act. Many think the conference was a flat failure; that idea is a great mistake. The meeting was a success; its influence will continue on; the end is not yet seen.

"For President Roosevelt, John Mitchell and the miners, it has made countless thousands of new friends. The president said to the contending parties: 'I appeal to your patriotism, to the spirit that sinks personal considerations, and make individual sacrifices for the general good.' To that sublime appeal John Mitchell made a sensible, Christian response. The coal combine shocked the civilized world by their answer.

"President Roosevelt, in 50 short words in his speech at Cincinnati, described a world-wide need. If capital will put his ideas into practice, labor unions and strikes will not be needed. He said: 'We are neither the friend of the rich man as such, nor the friend of the poor man as such; we are the friend of the honest man, rich or poor, and we intend that all men, rich and poor, shall obey the law alike, and receive its protection alike.'"

Services at Jail.

Religious services were held at the jail yesterday, the first time in ten weeks. The crowded condition of the institution during the summer caused the temporary suspension, but the courts have reduced the population there considerably in the past month.

ABOUT BLACK GOODS.

DEAR MADAM:

We think so much of our Black Goods that we give them the first counter in the front of the store, just inside the door. And our line is so large and complete that it meets every want from a simple black dress for everyday wear to a superb costume for the finest social function.

Black Zibelines have the call just now. This material, however, is one that should be excellent in quality, if you expect satisfaction. The Zibelines we carry range in price from $1.25 to $3.00. At the latter figure we are showing a pure mohair-and-wool fabric, with a permanent panne finish which looks very much like satin—something incomparably rich.

Among the $1.25 Black Dress Goods, which is about the price that most women pay cheerfully for their best black dress or separate skirt materials, we are showing the following popular weaves—Invisible Stripes, Panama Cloths, Canvas Cloths, Drap-de-Alma and Satin-finished Whipcords. All these come 46 inches wide, in the correct weights for separate skirts and jacket suits.

Samples of any of these black goods if you want them.

Yours very truly,
WM. CAMPBELL.

ABOUT DRESS TRIMMINGS.

DEAR MADAM:

Our buyer of dress trimmings is still in New York, but the greater part of his selections are now ready to show you.

Do not let anyone persuade you to decide upon the trimmings for your new dress or fall coat (if you are to have one made to order) until you see the new Drop Ornaments and Loops made from silk braids in a variety of styles and sizes—some so simple that they sell for 5c, and some such elaborate works of art that we have to ask $1.50 for them. Black is the leading color.

For Yokes, Fancy Waists and Coat Collars the most effective garniture is Venice All-Over Lace, in black, white and ecru. Our large selection of designs range in price from $1.00 to $5.00 a yard.

For silk jackets the most pleasing trimming will be the Venice Bands and Medallions, in straight or separable patterns, cream and ecru, at 15c to $3.00.

A splendid special at our Lace counter just now is a line of wide Val. and Point-de-Paris Laces, from three to six inches wide, with insertions to match, at 10c a yard. These are regular 15c and 20c values. Very truly yours,

WM. CAMPBELL.

ABOUT COLORED DRESS GOODS.

DEAR MADAM:

ABOUT OUR NEW SILKS.

DEAR MADAM:

'Tis true that the long strike of the Paterson silk dyers has stiffened prices—but our silk counter is not yet affected.

As a lining for your waist and silk coat, we commend our 27-inch Black Taffeta, now 89c, but bound to advance to a dollar later on. It has a soft finish, and is so extra good that we guarantee it without hesitation.

For a new black silk waist we can suggest nothing more suitable than the soft, lustrous Peau-de-Cygnes we retail at 75c a yard.

Metal printed Velvets, with silver spots and scroll designs printed on black and blue grounds by a process that makes the figures as fixed as the fabric, will be the most recherche thing for waists, skirts and entire costumes this season. Our price is 75c a yard.

A decided novelty in Silk-finished Corduroy is the hollow-cut cord effect in golden brown, myrtle green, castor, mode and cream—24 inches wide—retailing at $1.00 a yard.

Plaids are on the top wave of popularity once more. Lots of fashion-followers are buying the new Clan and Tartan effects and the fetching blue-and-green combinations. See our special lines at $1.00 and $1.50.

Samples of any of these silks or velvets if you want them.

Yours very truly,
WM. CAMPBELL.

Good Beds Make Regular Boarders . .

Many a boarding-house has half of its rooms empty because the beds are so thin, hard or lumpy that nobody sleeps well. When a man or woman lies awake at night tossing and turning in quest of a more comfortable position, they come down to breakfast disgruntled, develop into "chronic kickers," and the first thing you know, pack up—pay up—and go.

The Electric Felt Mattresses we sell are without a peer—beyond question the best beds made for solid comfort. They are filled with an elastic, springy felt that will never mat—are perfectly non-absorbent—never get lumpy—are buscuit-tufted with closely stitched edges—covered with the hair ticking or fancy art ticking—and will last a lifetime.

Try one sixty days at our risk. At the end of that time we'll send for the mattress and refund your money if you don't want to keep it.

Our Special Price $11. Well Worth $15.

FINAL REPORT OF GRAND JURY

Sixteen St. Louis Councilmen Charged With Accepting Bribes From Butler.

THREE GAVE EVIDENCE

Case Against Henry Nicholson, to Have Begun Today, Is Postponed--Democratic City Boss Goes to Trial October 20.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—The June grand jury, which has been in session continuously since it was called, has made its final report and has been discharged.

No written or verbal communication accompanied the report. Of five indictments handed in, four relate to criminal cases other than bribery. The other indictment contains two counts, in which 16 members of the municipal assembly are jointly charged with bribery.

The men accused are John A. Sheridan, E. ril Hartmann, Edmund Borsch, Otto Schumacher, Charles Denny, Adolph Madera, John Schnettler, Charles Gutke, Louis Decker, T. Edalbright, John Helms, Julius Lehmann, Charles F. Kelly, J. . Hannigan, William Tamblyn and Harry Faulkner, against whom bench warrants already have been issued and information filed.

The witnesses named on the back of the indictment are Delegates John K. Murrell, E. E. Murrell and George F. Robertson.

The first count of the indictment recites that on November 28, 1898, the foregoing made a bargain with Ed Butler, the millionaire Democratic boss of the city, by which they were to secure the passage of the city lighting bill in consideration of the sum of $47,500, paid by Ed Butler to Charles F. Kelly, to be distributed among the aforesaid delegates.

The second count alleges that the bargain with the delegates was made and the money paid over by "some person or persons to the grand jury unknown."

The trial of Henry Nicolaus, charged with bribery, which was to have begun tomorrow in Judge Ryan's court, will be postponed until October 20, at the request of Circuit Attorney Folk, who desires further time to prepare for it. The trial of Ed Butler at Columbia will begin October 13.

Henry Nicolaus is charged with bribery in connection with the suburban deal. It is alleged that the $135,000 put up to influence legislation in the suburban bill's favor while it was pending before the municipal assembly, was obtained on notes signed by Nicolaus, Ellis Wainwright, Charles H. Turner and President Laus of the Suburban Street Railway Company.

Nicolaus returned Thursday from a trip abroad. Ellis Wainwright is in Europe, and it is said that he and Nicolaus conferred about the case in Paris. Wainwright is regarded by Circuit Attorney Folk as a fugitive from justice.

SIXTH ANNIVERSARY.

Important Epoch in the Pastorate of the Rev. John A. Jayne of Allegheny.

The Rev. John A. Jayne and the congregation of the Observatory hill Christian church yesterday celebrated the sixth anniversary of the organization of the church. Despite the fact that both events fell on the same date no unusual program of exercises was arranged, pastor and congregation preferring to mark the day by performing their regular duties in both church and Sunday school.

THE REV. JOHN A. JAYNE.

Mr. Jayne preached the anniversary sermon in the morning, touching on the early history of the church and its gradual growth through 12 successful years. The attendance at the Sunday school was unusually large, as preparations are being made for a big rally day next Sunday. Congressman William H. Graham of Allegheny was present at the Sunday school exercises yesterday and made a brief address. Mr. Jayne preached last night on "The Life of Christ," the sermon being illustrated with stereopticon views.

The Rev. Mr Jayne was born in Massachusetts, and was graduated from the College of the Bible at Lexington, Ky. For a short time he preached in Cincinnati, and later in Chardon, O., from which place he was called by the little congregation of the Observatory hill church when the congregation numbered less than 100. During his pastorate the congregation has grown until now there are 280 members. The church property, which at first was bought for $500, has been added to, and the valuation now is placed at $15,000. Plans are being made to enlarge the church building next spring.

Services will be held at the Observatory hill church all this week. On Monday night the Rev. E. W. Thornton of Hazelwood will preach; on Tuesday, the Rev. W. H. Russell; Wednesday, the Rev. J. W. Kearns; Thursday, the Rev. Archibald Campbell; Friday, the Rev. F. M. Gordon.

New Tailoring Tendency.

The latest advance in the art of clothing men correctly is the advent of several great tailoring concerns, who are planting their cutposts in the great department stores, as an adjunct to the ready-made clothing department. The great Buffalo custom tailoring house, the Desbecker-Block Company, has gained a foothold in Pittsburgh, by placing in Campbell's, 327-333 Fifth avenue, their 200 sample pieces of the latest woolens, their newest fashion plates, and arranging for the taking of exact measurements. 'Tis said that a Desbecker-Block business suit is not only perfect fitting, but likewise a clean saving of from $5 to $10 to the wearer. Worth investigating, isn't it?

DAMROSCH'S PLAYERS TO BE HEARD TODAY

New York Philharmonic Orchestra Will Open at Exposition With a Fine Program.

Walter Damrosch and his New York Philharmonic orchestra open their season here this afternoon at the Exposition, and will remain until the close of the Exposition season, October 19. The closing two weeks promise much to the music-loving public. Mr. Damrosch, who has always been popular here, will conduct every concert personally, and in addition will take part in some other musical surprises that have been planned.

The program tonight is one that probably will attract a large crowd. At 7:30 the Pittsburgh Festival chorus, 600 voices, will sing Rosiff's beautiful "Inflammatus," and Gunoud's "Unfold Ye Portals." Miss Henrietta Keil will sing the solo parts. The vocal concert is under the direction of Benjamin Franklin Butts, and will be accompanied by the Damrosch orchestra. At the 9:30 concert the famous waltz song, "Parla," by Arditi, will be sung by Miss Anna Bussert, the New York singer. She will have the accompaniment of the orchestra.

VETERANS MOVE IN MANY TRAINS

GRAND ARMY INVADES THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

Fifty-Two Train Loads in 48 Hours—Pittsburgh Sends Over 3,500 to Encampment.

The thirty-sixth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which opens in Washington tomorrow, promises to be one of the most successful in the history of the organization. The vanguard of the movement began on Friday evening, and since that time special trains by the dozens having been rushing the veterans to the national capital. From all parts of the country they are coming, and by tomorrow the last of this mighty host will have passed through this city. Fifty-two trains passed through here Saturday and Sunday.

Pittsburgh will be fully represented at the encampment. Big delegations from all the local posts left the city during yesterday and Saturday night. It is estimated that fully 3,500 Grand Army men from this vicinity alone went during the past 24 hours. Railroad officials said yesterday that the western posts had sent large delegations, and that the travel to Washington outside of the veterans was very heavy.

Many Special Trains.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad sent out 10 special trains yesterday, and four special trains on Saturday. The officials say they expect to also send out several specials with Grand Army men today. This road has carried the greater proportion of the organizations from Pittsburgh. The movement through this station was very heavy yesterday. This morning at 8 o'clock a special on the Pennsylvania will leave, bearing Department Commander R. P. Scott and his staff, together with many others unattached to any organization.

From 2 o'clock yesterday morning until last midnight 20 special trains passed through Union station. On Saturday 18 specials went to Washington. Each train averaged about 11 cars, and every seat was occupied by a veteran or a member of his family. This exodus of war heroes to the national capital has taxed the motive power of both the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania. It was noticed yesterday that the Pennsylvania railroad had to borrow some engines, as a number of the local passenger trains on the Panhandle were being hauled by engines of the Pittsburgh, Chartiers & Youghiogheny railroad.

Wilkinsburg's Delegation.

This morning at 6:45 o'clock special cars will be waiting at Penn avenue and Wood street, Wilkinsburg, to convey the members of W. G. Lowry post, No. 548, G. A. R., their families and veterans from other parts of the county to the Baltimore & Ohio passenger station, where the delegation will leave at 8 o'clock for Washington to attend the encampment. About 200 persons will constitute the delegation. The committee of this post, Commander E. D. Brush, Theodore F. Anshutz, B. F. Shafer, Sr., and Justice of the Peace Samuel Creelman, have arranged for all the details of the trip in such a manner that there will be no confusion. Free quarters have been secured in the White House grounds.

Commander Brush of W. G. Lowry post says that this encampment will be the greatest ever held by the G. A. R., especially to the veterans of Pennsylvania. W. G. Lowry post will whoop it up for Thomas J. Stewart of Philadelphia, whose chances for election as national commander are most encouraging. The 58 delegates elected at Gettysburg, of whom Commander Brush is one, will vote and work to a finish for him.

Nearly all of last night special trains were speeding through this city carrying veterans of the Grand Army to Washington. Early yesterday morning post 3, 236 strong, went to the encampment in a special train over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Today post's Nos. 41, 541, 548, 150, 215, 88, 250, 117 and 206 will go out in special trains. Post 206 is a colored organization and expects to take a big delegation.

BUY NEW LINE.

Great Northern Railroad Representatives Secure Entrance Into Victoria and Vancouver, B. C.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 5.—A. Guthrie of St. Paul, a contractor of the Great Northern railway; John Henry and J. J. Jaffrey of Vancouver, have bought the Victoria Terminal railway and its franchises, which, it is understood, will give the Great Northern railway an entrance to Victoria and Vancouver.

The sale embraces a controlling interest in the Victoria Terminal and Sydney with the mainland and the Delta extension, which runs 17 miles from the mouth of the Fraser river to Cloverdale. The sale does not include the interest of the Sydney & Nanaimo Navigation Company, operating the steamers Strathcona, Iroquois and Unican, which are owned by E. V. Bodwell.

The new owners have not formulated any plan of action for the near future, and it will be a matter for consideration whether they will proceed at once with the building of a mainland connection with Westminster, or await the arrival of spring to begin the work.

REAL ESTATE MAN'S TROUBLE.

Charged With Serious Crimes Committed Under Another Name.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Ernest L. Squires, alias Edward Somers, was captured here last night, after an 18 months' chase by the New York police force.

Squires was arrested by the Washington police on request from Capt. Titus of the New York force. He was doing a real estate business here under the firm name of Edward Somers & Co. Detective O'Brien of the New York police force arrived and positively identified the prisoner as Ernest L. Squires.

O'Brien has a warrant for Squires, charging him in both the first and second degree with criminal assault, plain assault in the second degree and abduction. The crimes charged are alleged to have been committed on a 15-year-old girl, daughter of Squires' landlady in New York.

HALL GETS RID OF AN ADVERSARY

Withdrawl of Wilson, Nominee for Senator, Angers Republicans.

WIRE-PULLING BELIEVED

The Democratic Congressman Will Find Another Dangerous Rival in the Path of His Ambition to Go to Harrisburg.

By WALTER J. CHRISTY,
Staff Correspondent.

Ridgway, Pa., Oct. 5.—The withdrawl of E. M. Wilson as Republican candidate for senator in this district, composed of the counties of Elk, Cameron, Forest and Clarion, was a disappointment to the Republicans. A number of the leaders had figured how James K. P. Hall, the Democratic nominee, could be defeated. Hall will have opposition, it being probable that Col. A. A. Clearwater of this county will take the nomination.

The Republicans had an excellent opportunity to carry this senatorial district, but it makes the fight harder since Wilson has quit. Just why he drew out of the race is not known.

Hall was a weak candidate this time for several reasons. The Democratic nomination belonged to Representative George R. Dixon of Ridgway. Hall is now in congress, and his term does not expire until next March. As boss of the Elk machine, he brushed Dixon aside and took the nomination himself. Mr. Dixon does not have a barrel, but he has brains, and the confidence of the people of Elk. Hundreds of the best Democrats of the county who abhor ersism and bossism are displeased with the turndown of Dixon. They are ready to vote against Hall, if the proper kind of a man is put in the field. Even the 90 odd holders of liquor licenses are ready to throw Hall if they can be assured that his machine can be broken.

Hall knows that he has the fight of his life this time and that fortune of some kind favored him in the withdrawal of Wilson. Some Republicans here are inclined to believe that some wire was pulled to get a clear track for Hall. The congressman is said to have boasted that he accomplished the sidetracking of Wilson by the aid of Quay. The senator has written a letter here indignantly denying that he had any part in the withdrawal.

The Republican conferees who nominated Wilson will be called together this week. Effort will be made to have Col. Clearwater take the nomination. He is well known in the district, having been a candidate for congress against Hall two years ago. He claims that had not fraud been perpetrated he would have won. His nomination would sorely distress Hall.

Other men mentioned are Capt. Charles F. Barclay and ex-Representative S. S. Smith of Cameron. Barclay is a wealthy Republican and Smith is an anti-Hall Democrat. It is said Hall promised Smith the senatorial nomination and then took it himself. The nomination of Barclay would make doubly certain the election of H. H. Mullen, the Republican candidate for assemblyman in Cameron county.

Ex-Gov. Pattison and George W. Guthrie attended church today and spent the remainder of the time resting. They have campaigned through 29 counties, traveled 2,329 miles and made over 100 speeches. Tomorrow Reynoldsville, DuBois and Clearfield will be visited.

THE GAZETTE MARCH

Was the Popular Number Yesterday at Kennywood Park's Closing Concert.

With an afternoon concert by Guenther's Greater Pittsburgh band Kennywood park closed for the greatest season in its history yesterday. Calhoun, Oakwood and Southern parks closed a week ago but in response to numerous requests one more concert was given at Kennywood. It was decided to hold the concert at the open air music pavilion, but the heavy rain drove 3,000 people and the musicians into the dancing pavilion, where everybody was comfortable.

It being the last concert of the season Director K. W. F. Guenther had an unusually lively program, and for a dramatic finale used Carl Bruno's "Pittsburgh Gazette" march. The wide popularity of this composition was shown by the number of people who whistled and hummed the air during and after the number. It was excellently played, and the performers deserved all the applause they received. During the winter improvements are to be made at all the parks. Additional exit gates at Kennywood will be constructed.

JUSTICE GRINDS SLOWLY.

Four Years Since Adams Murder, and Trial Will Be Postponed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Roland B. Molineux probably will face his trial judge on Tuesday. The actual beginning of the case, which everyone concerned fears because of its tediousness, will be deferred at least until Wednesday, and there may be a postponement of a month.

It will be four years on December 28 since Mrs. Katherine J. Adams died from the poison in the supposed bottle of bromo-seltzer, said to have been sent to Harry S. Cornish at the Knickerbocker club.

ALL ITALIAN ORCHESTRA.

Mascagni's Decision Causes Tempest in Musical Circles.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(Special.)—When Mascagni appears for the first time before an American audience, his orchestra will be all Italian, instead of all American, as announced Saturday.

This was decided this afternoon by the composer and his managers, and resulted in a musical storm which for half an hour beat from the foyer to the stage entrance of the Metropolitan opera house and back again.

IN THE OIL FIELDS

Operators in the lower southwest fields are beginning to realize in their search for new pools in both West Virginia and Southeastern Ohio. The last quarter of the year promises better results than were derived from the efforts made during the entire first nine months. The new pools do not promise to develop into fields of considerable proportions, but in the aggregate they will furnish quite a volume of new production and pay handsome returns on the money invested in developments.

The advancement in the credit balance market from $1.22 to $1.25 for high grade crude, on Saturday last will have a stimulating effect on field work of an experimental nature. It must not be understood, however, that there has been a total lack of this kind of work in the early part of the year. If there had been, the new pools now under development would not have been discovered. The firm belief that the market would sooner or later advance was what inspired the starting of experimental work in untried localities. That the market remained at a fixed point for so many months was something of a disappointment.

It is very gratifying to the operator and producer alike that their commodity is to command a higher price. The greatest number to be benefited by the appreciation in values are the owners of small wells in the old fields. An advance of three cents a barrel means much to the owner of a lot of one and two barrel wells in fields long since defined and with no further chance for increasing production.

The price that producing property has commanded all through this year has never been equaled and yet it will be recalled that very little production has changed hands in the old fields. In a few cases as much as $1,000 a barrel has been paid for new production, based in part on prospective producing qualities of undeveloped territory that went along with the deal. The advance in the market will probably be the means of calling off several large deals that have been under negotiation for some time.

The Week's Developments.

Interest in the lower southwest fields during the past week was confined to the Keener sand pools in Ritchie county, W. Va., and Southeastern Ohio. In the first named the new wells completed seem to indicate that the richest portion of the Big Knot pool has been developed and the era of light wells and dusters has arrived and an avoidance of the latter to the detriment of the good record of the interior, will require diplomacy on the part of the holders of outlying territory. The losses that usually follow the development of a new pool are caused generally by a fixed belief that the producing lines can be advanced beyond the actual dimensions of the producing area. It is one of the characteristics of the Keener sand formation to break off abruptly, and there is no reason to think that the Big Knot run pool will prove an exception to the rule. Five wells were completed in the course of the development during the week and all were light as compared with the first dozen wells completed in the pool. The production was increased about 500 barrels during the past seven days, making the total output on Big Knot run about 2,000 barrels a day at the close. It is not likely that this can be increased for any considerable time, for the reason that the old wells no longer respond to dosing with the high explosive fluid.

Those who were fortunate enough to land a lease inside of the producing limits, stand to make a large winning if they adhere to a conservative policy in developing the outer edges of their holdings. All are experienced operators and when the end has been reached very few dusters will be charged up against the pool.

Wolf Pen Run.

There is more to learn from the Keener sand pool on Wolf Pen run in the same county. As yet there are but two gushers in that pool and a dozen or more wells have been completed. An outlet from these gushers, if one exists, has yet to be discovered. Operations in the vicinity of the big wells are increasing and it will be but a few weeks at most till the result is known. There is a vast difference in getting in results in this territory, where it requires from twelve to twenty days to complete a well, as compared with deep sand drilling in Wetzel and some other counties, where 48 and even 60 days is regarded good time to reach the lower producing formations.

In the salt sand districts in Ritchie county there is great activity an much of the work under way is of an experimental nature. What was thought to be a promising salt sand development on the South Fork of Hughes river has not come up to the expectations of those who made investments. The number of wells completed up to the present time show that the producers and dry holes are very evenly divided.

Ordinary producers were the rule in the Gordon sand districts during the week. On Grass run, Harrison county, two good producers were added to the list, but neither added anything to the limits of the development. In the Folsom district in Wetzel county, a few good wells were completed and at least two had a very close call to getting into the winter list. The lower end of the development shows the most activity and has not been defined. In the Marshall county districts some new wells were drilled in and proved light producers or gassers.

Southeastern Ohio.

The sensation of the week on the Ohio side was the Unity Oil Company's discovery on the James Cooper farm, located one mile southeast of Monroeville, Monroe county, and about 7 miles southwest of the Keener sand pool west of Jerusalem in the same county.

This venture was drilled into the Keener sand on last Tuesday, and when a few feet in the Keener sand began to flow at the rate of 20 barrels an hour and without agitation or deeper drilling, rounded out the week at the rate of 200 barrels a day. There is no doubt but the well opens up a new Keener pool. Some five months ago the same company drilled in a test on this farm 800 feet south of the producer and got a gasser, so that an extension in that direction is not possible. The Unity Oil Company hold leases on 2,000 acres in the vicinity of this well and unless it has larger dimensions than the Jerusalem pool there will not be much consolation for leaseholders on the outside.

On Clear Fork creek in the same county is a development that shows activity. The oil is developed in both the Big Lima and Big Injun formations. The best wells are secured in the first named sand and are good for 100 barrels a day.

Near Uniontown, Belmont county, is a new development that is receiving some attention, and south of Knoxville, Jefferson county, is another that looks promising.

TWELVE PAGES.

The Post criticises The Gazette for supporting reform in Allegheny county, while supporting the Republican ticket in the state. "The state machine and the county machine are the Siamese twins in politics," says the Post, "inseparable in their schemes of plunder and wrong." We must remind our cotemporary that when Pattison was last elected it was with the aid of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny county machine. That is matter of general public knowledge. It is also quite well known that Pattison was duly grateful for the assistance and did not use any of his executive powers to discourage the Pittsburgh machine from plundering the taxpayers.

Moreover, the remnant of the Pittsburgh machine is devising ways and means to assist Pattison again. There is the "Muddy Water party," with Boss Flinn trying to hide behind Grimes. The only purpose of that organization is to draw a few votes from Pennypacker in the interest of Pattison the immaculate. It will not do for the Post to charge the Republican state organization with responsibility for the Pittsburgh ring. The public knows better than that. There has never been any sympathy in that quarter, and the Citizens party, the reform element in Allegheny county, recognized the facts when it gave its indorsement to the Republican state ticket. The relations between Pattison and the Pittsburgh machine have not been forgotten by the true Republicans or the reformers in Allegheny county.

While the site of the Carnegie technical school continues in doubt and controversy, the teachers of the public schools have decided to ask for a department in the institution for their own instruction. There is a present prospect that it may be a considerable time before they or any one else will benefit by the liberal proposition of Mr. Carnegie to build, equip and endow a technical school. Nevertheless, the teachers exhibit a spirit of enterprise in this matter and a just appreciation of the educational needs of the community in which they labor. The Carnegie offer contemplates the training of future captains of industry, who are to maintain the supremacy of Pittsburgh in the industrial world and the supremacy of America. It is well that teachers in the public schools of the city should have some training in the same direction, as it will be their task to prepare the youth for the greater work ahead. Manual training has already obtained a firm foothold in the schools of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, and it is the part of wisdom to give mental discipline a technical turn in connection with the education of the hands.

Another Republican policy is fully vindicated by the statistics from Washington affecting the organization of national banks, under the law of March 18, 1900. Pennsylvania leads in the amount of capitalization of new banks, but Texas is first in the number of banks. Other states range along after. Pennsylvania and Texas are extremes at either end of the scale politically, the former being noted for the largest Republican majorities, and the latter for the largest Democratic majorities in history. Yet they have many things in common that will ultimately modify the Democratic majorities in Texas and increase the Republican majorities in Pennsylvania. One of the things tending to that end is the Republican policy concerning the currency. Texas is developing rapidly and is as much in need of a sound system of finance as Pennsylvania or New York. Texas is so big it takes some time to spread intelligence to its utmost limits, but it is spreading in ratio with the organization of national banks.

Among the many suggestions for bringing the anthracite miners' strike to an end is one by Attorney W. J. Brennen, that Attorney General Elkin should proceed against the coal-carrying railroads under the provisions of Article xvii., section 5, of the state constitution. Mr. Brennen is known locally as an active politician, which gives rise to the suspicion that he may be trying to give the matter a turn for partisan effect. If so, he will find it a boomerang. The anthracite combination was formed during Mr. Pattison's second administration as governor, the Reading railroad, then in the hands of receivers, being the active spirit in the organization. Mr. Pattison was appealed to in behalf of the miners and declined to take any action. The strongest protest was made by Mr. A. J. Cassatt, now president of the Pennsylvania railroad. He cited the same provision of the constitution that Mr. Brennen has referred to, presented maps showing the territory covered. Gov. Pattison's reply was: "I have no complaint, and have no knowledge of such a combination."

Again the imports of iron and steel products. Latest statistics show an increase of $11,000,000 for eight months over the corresponding period of last year, the increase for August alone being $2,000,000. The items cover a wide range. On the other hand, the exports of iron and steel manufactures show a decrease of $5,000,000 for the same eight months. Under some circumstances these conditions would indicate danger. At present they simply measure the tremendous growth of domestic demand. American manufacturers, though they have largely increased their capacity for production, are wholly unable to keep pace with the orders coming from all parts of the country for certain lines of metal goods. In their endeavor they have imported pig iron, ingots, blooms, slabs and billets, which they have found inferior to the home-made goods and of only slight advantage in the effort to turn out more finished material. The increasing imports and decreasing exports in this case merely mark the high tide of prosperity in the United States which is rolling over all obstacles. When the tide turns then Europe may have to face the "American invasion" in earnest. Undoubtedly American skill and energy are more than a match of European cheap labor in the competition of prices. The output per man is greater here, so the actual wages cost of a ton of finished steel is less in Pennsylvania than in Germany, despite the great difference in the earning power of the man in favor of the Pennsylvanian. It is for this reason that growing imports give no cause for alarm.

DALZELL AND THE SPEAKERSHIP.

Since The Gazette in its editorial columns first advocated the Hon. John Dalzell for speaker of the national house of representatives, in place of Gen. Henderson, who will not be in the next congress, there has been a growing feeling in Pennsylvania that he is the right man for the place. The papers of the state comment favorably on the suggestion, and the sentiment that he ought to be chosen to the place promises to grow into a solid demand on behalf of Pennsylvania. We doubt whether any man in congress can obtain so hearty a support from the various congressional delegations. There are few or no antagonisms to prejudice him in the minds of the members of the present house, and we think that those of them that will be in the next congress—and they are the ones who will be most influential in the election of the speaker—can more easily unite on Dalzell than on any member of congress whose name has been mentioned. In the give and take of national legislative effort his uniform courtesy has won for him many lasting friendships. Mr. Dalzell will not discuss the possibilities, saying it is too early to talk about the matter, as the congress that will choose the next speaker is yet to be elected. Others, however, do not feel barred from talking by that consideration, and the result of it all is that the more it is talked of and considered the more apparent his availability becomes. His career is flawless, and along with it his ability and acquirements make him conspicuously fit. The Republican leaders of the state have been quick to concede and proclaim his fitness and availability. Senator Quay, when in Pittsburgh, spoke to that point, and now Senator Penrose has declared him to be "the logical successor of Speaker Henderson," and he thinks that the Pennsylvania delegation will be as a unit for him. We think so, too. We anticipate that the whole people of the state will be unanimous for him, and will regret that they have not the privilege of seating him in the speaker's chair by a popular vote.

It is flattering to local pride that there should be so cordial a response to the suggestion of Mr. Dalzell for the speakership. Allegheny county is proud that one of her sons should have shown himself worthy of the great honor. Mr. Dalzell has been tireless in the public service at no inconsiderable personal sacrifice. He has served the best interests of the nation, and in doing so has served the best interests of his immediate constituents. He is worthy of any honor within their gift or within the range of their influence. Unquestionably they feel that way regarding him. The circumstance that in his candidacy for re-election to congress he is absolutely unopposed is indicative of the local sentiment in his favor. A man of strong opinions and strict adherence to them, who, after almost two decades in congress, stands in the enviable position of having been conceded a clear field has surely a first claim on the consideration of his party for promotion and an enlargement of his sphere of usefulness.

STONE'S LATE DEFENSE.

No one would deprive Gov. Stone of the satisfaction it may have afforded him to stand in the presence of a Harrisburg audience and defend himself against attacks that have been made on him by calling attention to the admitted benefits derived from the general workings of Republican policies in state affairs. But it cannot be denied that it has taken the governor a long time to screw his courage up to the point of doing so. In things the governor sets forth in justification of his administration of state affairs one easily sees the potent influence working upward from the people through many years, establishing beneficial conditions that could not have been reversed except by a revolution. The credit the governor lays claim to in this connection is due in the main to causes antedating his appearance at Harrisburg, over which he had no control, and as they could not have been reversed by anything short of a revolution he appears as a beneficiary of them and not as the working agency responsible for their realization. The force of past initiative was sufficient to have carried forward the beneficial influences established by Republican policies. The complaint against the governor is not that he turned back the stream, which he couldn't have done, but that he muddied the water, and made it very muddy indeed. The nomination of Judge Pennypacker for governor was not only a rebuke of Stone's course, but was at the same time the determined action of the Republican party through its freshly elected representatives, permeated with the spirit of the party, to make the stream run pure.

In defense of himself Gov. Stone carefully refrained from reference to the act for which he has been most criticised—the restoring of the machinery of government of the city of Pittsburgh to the organization from which it had been wrested by means of the ripper act. The governor admits changes in the charter bill that robbed it of some of its most beneficial features before its enactment as a law, and endeavors to defend them on the ground that they were made to win votes for the measure, but he has no defense for his act in nullification of the admitted intent of the bill, the restoration of the dispossessed ring—an act designed to fasten more firmly the shackles that had just been struck off.

As we have said, Gov. Stone is late with his defense, but fortunately the Republican party was not dilatory in rising superior to Stone and Stoneism. Stone has accommodated himself to this condition because there was no other course for him to pursue.

DISTINCTIONS AND DIFFERENCES.

In the United States we are a sovereign people. Every American family is a royal family, whereas in each European country one family monopolizes the royal degree. It is the fashion for royal families to intermarry, and it is the exception for members of royal families to wed members of families below their rank. Mere nobles are not ordinarily considered fitting mates for those of royal birth. We of the United States are more democratic about such matters. At home, all being royal families, there is no opportunity for Americans to marry out of their rank, unless they marry foreigners. Some Americans have waived all considerations of caste and contracted alliances with merely noble houses of Europe. Occasionally there is some objection heard, but as a rule there is none, so long as those immediately concerned are satisfied, for an American sovereign holds the European of noble or merely gentle birth as good as anyone, if he behaves himself. There are, however, it is perhaps worth noting, varying degrees of nobility, and Americans do not pretend to know much about them—not enough to clearly differentiate them. But it is almost worth while, in view of the frequent marriages of princesses of our reigning houses with scions of English aristocracy, to learn something about these differences in rank and the resulting differences in styles of address. "All things are not what they seem." For instance, Rear Admiral Beresford of the English navy was featured in dispatches in the Sunday papers from Sharon, Pa., as Lord Beresford. But he is not properly Lord Beresford. Aside from his naval title his proper style is Lord Charles Beresford. Not being a peer, the titular distinction in his case is prefixed to the given name, and when it is undesirable or inconvenient to use the whole name it should be Lord Charles, and never Lord Beresford. Younger sons of English nobles (or peers) of a certain degree are given the "courtesy" title of lord. It is a courtesy that has the force of established usage, and in England custom makes law. But the courtesy lord has none of the privileges of a peer, and differs in no respect from an untitled commoner, except that at social functions he has a certain superior place. A peer transmits his title to his eldest son. The son of a courtesy lord is not a lord; he is entitled to be styled "honorable," and his children lose even that distinction. The difference in England between a peer and a courtesy lord is so great that the distinction is always preserved in the titular designation. At this distance it does not so readily appear. But it may be worth remembering that only a peer is "noble;" a courtesy lord is not a nobleman, but a commoner.

There is another peculiarity of English rank and title that is called to mind by the Beresford matter. It appears in connection with the children of our American duchesses. The eldest son of our duchess of Marlborough is styled by courtesy marquis of Blandford, whereas the new-born son of our duchess of Manchester is styled, also by courtesy, Viscount Mandeville. Even Americans are for the most part uninformed of the elementary truth that marquis is a title two steps higher in the peerage than viscount. And yet the marquis of Blanford and Viscount Mandeville are of equal rank. In the eyes of the law both are commoners, possessing none of the privileges of peers, just as in the case of Lord Charles Beresford. As a matter of courtesy, a duke's eldest son is accorded the right to use the next lower title of his father. The duke of Marlborough possesses a marquisate; the duke of Manchester, aside from his dukedom, possesses no higher peerage than a viscounty. Therefore, Marlborough's boy is marquis by courtery, and Manchester's boy is viscount, but in actual practice both are placed in the table of precedence, for social purposes only, after peers of the degree of marquis and before peers of the degree of earl. But at a high state function, such as was the coronation, neither would have a place among the peers. At a dinner party, however, they would go in before earls and sit nearer the head of the table.

But, after all, what does it matter? In this country, where we are all kings, we are disposed to give all others the same rights as we possess ourselves. Distinctions of rank are of no consequence in a land where the man's the gold. When Lord Beresford, or the marquis of Blandford, or Viscount Mandeville come to visit us we will not remember it against them that we in the United States are sovereigns, and they in their own country mere subjects. All we will ask of them is that they behave. Beresford is reputed to do so on all occasions, and the American mothers of the other two ought to bring them up to do likewise.

COMRADES AND FATHERS.

The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be in session this week in Washington. Tens of thousands of veterans of the war between the states are en route to the national capital or are faced in that direction ready for the start. Thousands of gray-headed and gray-bearded men who were once spoken of as "the boys in blue" will go from Allegheny county alone. Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia will send their hosts. From the east and from the west, from the north and from the south, the men who suffered hunger and deprivation, fatigue and thirst, the exteremes of heat and cold, and separation from loved ones, and who faced death at the cannon's mouth in the fateful charge, or in the sword and bayonet thrust at close quarters, that the government of the people, by the people and for the people should not perish from the earth, will assemble in the capital of the union that they preserved to be the pride of their children, the pride of the children of the men who wore the gray and of men who themselves marched and fought under the confederate banner; the union that stands one and undivided as an example to the world of what may be achieved by a free people, governing themselves. For what the United States is today we have to thank the men who by companies and regiments are laying down the burden of life in the peace of an old age that a grateful nation delights to honor. To have served the union in the dark days of the civil war is a patent of nobility. "Comrade" is a higher title than any that can be conferred by a sovereign on a subject. Membership in the Grand Army of the Republic is an open sesame to every heart. It stands for qualities of sterling worth, for strong purpose, for abounding patriotism, for devoted hearts. The grand organization, fated to dwindle and fade away as its members move to their long home with the silent majority, links the triumphs of peace with the glorious and solemn past and fans ever and anew the pure flame of devotion to home and flag and country. In its various encampments the great heart of the people is with it. Echoes of the old songs sung again around the improvised campfires float out as fresh inspirations. Memory is kept green by the old tales that are retold by the old men to each other and to the listening, wondering youth of newer generations, and an ennobling, humanizing influence goes forth to remind one and all that gold is not the best object of human endeavor nor gain the chief end of man. God bless the old men in blue as they rally round the flag, tent on the old campground or pass on to those Arlingtons where "glory guards with solemn round the bivouac of the dead." They are comrades of each other, brothers in war and peace, and fathers of the restored and renewed union that is, and ever will be, their chiefest monument.

Our rural contemporary, the Leechburg Advance, suggests that "our copperhead snakes" may join the Coon Hollow party and send the coon scampering up a tree. In Coon Hollow play that may well be. But in the serious political world The Gazette has never been scared by any number of copperheads and is not now fearful of them.

Sentiment favorable to Dalzell for speaker is growing at Washington and elsewhere. It will not be discouraged, either, by the distinguished Pittsburgher's resolve to defer his candidacy until a Republican house is assured in the elections.

Nebraska's senators have lined up in the reciprocity column in time to avert the deluge.

THURSTON'S EXIT PUZZLES GOTHAM

People Wondering Why an Official Apparently So Efficient Must Go.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.

Whether New York city is likely to get better police service through the resignation of Deputy Commissioner Thurston, is a question already answered in the negative. The prevailing opinion is that it might have been better if the commissioner had got out instead. No one outside of city hall seems to think that Col. Partridge is making an overwhelming success of the management of the police department. Take it on the whole, New York is not better policed than it was under the rule of Devery, if as well. The conditions prevailing in this city are such that it requires a burly fighter like "Big Bill" to control the disorderly element and make "grafters" understand that there must be a limit to their operations. Thurston, while not so rough in his methods as Devery, was not at all backward in punishing policemen when he felt they deserved it, and he was disposed to look rather more sternly upon delinquents than the mild-mannered Commissioner Partridge. Any policeman that knew the methods of Mulberry street would rather go before Patridge than Thurston, or ever Ebstein, the other deputy commissioner. Thurston had a way of probing to the bottom of a complaint, and it was his uncomfortable habit, too, to prowl about the city at night to see just what policemen were doing on post. This was the custom of Theodore Roosevelt when he was police commissioner, and always was an effective way of keeping the toes of policemen's boots to the straight line. The average New Yorker feels that the resignation of Thurston is a distinct loss to the police department, and that it means a still more lax management of police affairs. It may be that some good man will be found to fill Thurston's place, and there is every likelihood that such a man will be found in Maj. Ebstein; but the question still remains: Why was Thurston forced out of a position he filled so well? Perhaps Mayor Low could tell, but he won't, it seems.

Congratulations to May and Putty.

Well, thank Hymen, Putnam Bradlee Strong and May Yohe are married at last—that is, if we are to believe a telegram sent to Manny Friend, the lawyer who is as well known in New York as Abe Hummel himself. May and Putty were bound to entangle themselves in matrimonial chains at some time or other, so, if 'twere done, it were well it were done quickly. Congratulations have been flashing along the cable to Buenos Ayres from New York ever since yesterday, and they are still going.

Getting Used to Electric Trains.

New York soon gets used to a new element in its daily life. The new electric trains on the Sixth avenue division of the "L" were regarded with particular interest today by the large class that habitually does not ride on the elevater railroad; but the regular riders, who have been in an electrically-propelled "L" train a dozen times in the past week, have reached the point of accepting them as a matter of course. The two sets of passengers—those who never saw an electric train on the Sixth avenue elevated road and those who have become used to them—were noticeably distinct from each other today. I heard one hardened electric train passenger contemptuously refer to a stranger to the system, who sat near him, as "a rube."

Bay Rum Cocktails and Jags.

The "bay rum jag" is getting to be a serious affair among soldiers. An enlisted man in one of the forts in New York harbor died a week ago from drinking bay rum, as was told in The Gazette at the time. Now comes a report of two soldiers at Fort Warren giving up their lives from the same cause. It is all blamed on the abolishing of the canteen. The main thing that interests New York, however, is whether bay rum is to become a regular drink. In a West Side saloon there is a bartender who will fix you up a "bay rum cocktail," although he does not recommend it as wholesome. It smells like half-oil and is said to taste like a Bowery lodging house.

Winter Hard on Restaurants.

According to the manager of a well-patronized restaurant of the middle class near Herald square, winter is a bad time for his business. He always expects a falling off in trade as cold weather approaches. He explains it on the theory that men prefer to go home to their meals if they are at all within reach, and, failing in that, they sit in their workshops, stores or offices and eat luncheon brought from home in preference to walking a few blocks in the cold, and perhaps through snow, to a restaurant. Of course, this does not apply to the gay places where people go for supper after the theater, nor to the swell dining rooms at the Waldorf, Holland, Sherry's or Delmonico's. The expensive restaurants always do business in the winter. Their dull time is summer, when, curiously enough, the ordinary restaurant is particularly well patronized.

Plenty of Work for the Courts.

After a long summer rest the judiciary will resume work in several courts tomorrow morning. The special and trial terms of the supreme, surrogate's and city courts will begin and there will be a renewal of activity in court rooms which have been drowsing through the hot months, and some that were not so hot. On account of two judges dying in the course of a year the supreme court is woefully behind with its work. There are 8,400 cases on the calendar, which is 1,000 more than there were at this time of year seven years ago, when the supreme court was consolidated with the superior court and the court of common pleas.

Mascagni Doesn't Talk Shop.

Mascagni, composer of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and other well-known musical works, who reached New York yesterday, is a plain-mannered man and has created a good impression in New York. He does not talk shop perpetually, as so many distinguished musicians are inclined to do, but enjoys the passing moment as gayly as if there were no such thing as a music-scored world. He was walking along Broadway this morning, looking about him smilingly and apparently enjoying his first sight of New York's Rialto with keen appreciation of its characteristics. Then he caught sight of the Metropolitan opera house, and, under the guidance of a friend, was soon swallowed up by its rather imposing stage door in Thirty-ninth street.

Swedish Congregation a Failure.

It seems as if New York will not support a Swedish church. The Rev. Richard Tjader's International Union church, in East Seventy-second street, which is handsomely fitted with a fine organ and expensive pews, is to be sold. Mr. Tjader first opened a Swedish mission in One Hundredth street, near Third avenue. Then he moved down to Seventy-second street and says he found his congregation falling away from him. Some of his old followers came with him, but more of them did not, and there were no new worshippers to take their places. So Mr. Tjader has gone to Sweden and his family will soon join him there. There are a large number of Swedes in New York, making a fair proportion of the immense foreign population, but they are so scattered that it is impossible to gather them into one church on a Sunday. Hence Mr. Tjader's failure.

New York Sunday in Blue and Red.

Salvation Army soldiers of both sexes pretty well own the town today, reckoning their numerical strength. Wherever one goes one sees the Salvation Army uniform. In the cars, on ferry boats, on Broadway, and particularly in West Fourteenth street near Sixth avenue, the well-known dark blue poke bonnet, with its red ribbon, or the blue-and-red fatigue cap of the man soldier, is to be seen. Salvationists from hundreds of towns are in the city to welcome Gen. William Booth, commander-in-chief of the army. He spoke in the Academy of Music this morning and evening, and tonight delivered an address in Carnegie hall, Mayor Low presiding.

Hopes for Carnegie Contribution.

Gen. Booth said yesterday that he had not seen Andrew Carnegie, but that a friend had spoken to the Pittsburgh philanthropist and multi-millionaire. The general expects to raise large sums of money in America to help the work of the army, and the inference drawn from his brief remark about Mr. Carnegie was that he hopes for a substantial contribution from that source.

Seizure of Fireworks.

Fireworks are usually a feature of Italian celebrations. The rockets, bombs, Roman candles and other pyrotechnics used in New York city are not manufactured here as a rule, but come from neighboring towns in New Jersey. This accounts for the seizure of enough fireworks in Italian tenements in Newark yesterday to blow up a whole city block.

Only an Atlantic Ferry Now.

James A. Bailey, proprietor of the Barnum & Bailey circus, came over from Europe on the Philadelphia yesterday. Only a very few weeks ago I saw Mr. Bailey and George O. Starr in close confab in "Amen Corner," at the Fifth Avenue hotel, and at that time there was no suggestion that the veteran showman might cross the Atlantic for months to come. The fact that he could slip over to Europe and back again before one had had time to miss him from Broadway, is only another reminder that the ocean ferry now-a-days is not much more of a trip than across to Jersey City.

New York and Its Sunday.

As if to make sure of as much of the pleasure of warm weather as possible, people were out in crowds today, although the rain poured down constantly. Many of them were talking about the prospective coal famine, but it did not appear to spoil their pleasure in the present comfortable temperature. The churches were well filled in the morning, but in the afternoon and evening New York turned out for its regular Sunday constitutional, wet weather and all. The "sacred concerts" tonight were patronized enormously. It may be that New York is fast giving itself the "Continental Sunday." If it is, none can say that it does not seem to give general satisfaction. This city is too cosmopolitan to yield itself to the strict rules for Sunday observance that are so easily enforced in more conservative communities—that of Pittsburgh, for instance.

Tim Sullivan Will Dole Out Coal.

Now, God bless Big Tim Sullivan. He is the statesman who is popularly supposed to own the whole Tammany district on the East Side, below Fourteenth street, and he is in effect emperor of the Bowery. As an emperor, he will not allow his subjects to suffer, for he has announced that after next Tuesday he will give to each and every needy person applying at a certain number in the Bowery, half a ton of coal and the wood to light it with. He says it is no one's business where he will get the coal. He will get it, and if he "goes broke," that also is his own business. "Big Tim" has just been nominated for congress, after being a state senator for a number of years, and perhaps feels that, as a national lawmaker, it is his duty to take care of his constituents at home as well as at Washington. "Big Tim" is one of the most picturesque figures in Tammany hall, and one of the most generous.

Subway Has No Regard for Beauty.

There has been apprehension over the trees in the boulevard since the rapid transit subway contractors began operations along that thoroughfare. Commissioner Willcox of the park department says that if the trees torn up for the tunnel are not soon restored he will take the matter into the courts. The boulevard was one of New York's beauty districts before work began on the tunnel. Today it is a horror.

Ideal of the Sunday Newspaper Was Reached by The Gazette.

To have everything that any other paper has and a few things that no one else has is a victory for most modern newspapers. Yesterday's Sunday Gazette had every news item of importance in the whole world. Not only did it have everything that any other paper had, but it contained not a few, but many features that no other in the country had. It was a complete newspaper.

Its news columns were full of terse condensed stories that told everything in the fewest words possible. Every department was covered. The happenings of a busy world, the latest political gossip, pages full of sporting results from all over the country, and the social events, opening a season that promises to surpass in brilliancy any in the past, were put before its readers in the most attractive way.

The great anthracite mine strike in all its phases, a question of paramount interest to the American people at present, the efforts of President Theodore Roosevelt to bring about a settlement and his latest plans for doing so, were chronicled in a way that only the unrivalled wire service of The Gazette could allow.

A host of special writers, whose reputations are world-wide, contributed Sunday stories of the kind that are such an attractive part of the modern Sunday newspaper. The Gazette's readers were told the little methods employed in distributing the scores of thousands of copies to their homes. The Ohio valley was greatly interested in the special page devoted to Steubenville, beautifully illustrated and written by John P. Cowan.

The departments on current literature, full of bright reviews of the books that are to become the popular favorites in the near future, the theatrical gossip, that told the devotees of the playhouse of the treats in store for them, and the all-important section to the business man and breadwinner, the financial department, were cared for by the most expert men in their several lines in this city, men whose ability and names are a byword not only in Pittsburgh, but throughout the country.

The comic section was the usual source of enjoyment to young and old, with all the old favorites in line, the "Coon Hollow Folks," "Billy Bounce," "Spiegleburger" and a few new acquaintances thrown in for good measure.

The Gazette's series of pretty Pittsburgh girls had another star added in the person of Miss Eleanor Heflick, whose full length portrait led the magazine section, while the art supplement was a beautiful picture of Maude Adams, perhaps the most popular of all American actresses.

Not the least pleasing feature was an announcement that beginning next Sunday, The Gazette, with its usual enterprise, would begin a new series of art supplements, far in advance of anything ever offered by a newspaper. All will be magnificent specimens of color work by Oscar Holliday Banghart, and would cost a pretty penny if The Gazette readers were to buy them at an art store. This is only an indication of the series of pleasant surprises awaiting the friends of "The Old Lady."

A VIEW OF PITTSBURGH.

Philadelphian Highly Pleased With What He Saw.

Travelers see the worst side of Pittsburgs from railroad car windows. Even those who get into the business district do not see the best of the city. Gradually, however, Pittsburgh is coming to be known by the American people and to be feared by Europe. The following letter from our well-known townsman, Mr. S. S. Marvin, is interesting, and that of Mr. Sanger, which Mr. Marvin incloses, affords us a view of ourselves "as others see us:"

I take pleasure in inclosing you an article written by a Philadelphia friend of mine, who got outside of the Union station in Pittsburgh the first time in his life.

During my stay here in Philadelphia, I have met a great many people who are in the habit of traveling, men who are well read, intellectual people. I say to them, "Did you ever go to Pittsburgh?" One gentleman remarked "No, I was never in Pittsburgh, I was once as far west as Greensburg."

This gentleman had traveled abroad to a very considerable extent, his daughters had been educated abroad, but to my utter amazement he said, "Had never been farther west than Greensburg," and so with his entire family.

I met another gentleman who knew all about the castles in Spain, but said he hadn't been in Pittsburgh for 40 years, never had been west of there, and it is amazing to meet such people, not only in Philadelphia, but in New York.

Talking to a Boston gentleman once he asked me which was the larger town, Homestead or Pittsburgh. Of course, to us who have so long resided in Pittsburgh, and looking upon it as one of the most interesting, wealthy and intellectual cities in the land, this is all very amusing. S. S. MARVIN.

THE SMOKY CITY.

I had passed through Pittsburgh frequently, but until a few days ago, had never stepped outside of the Union depot.

I knew it as the "Great Smoky City," but never realized that it was one of the most energetic and bustling cities on the American continent.

I reached its suburbs about dark, and after dinner took a trolley ride into the city. In the business section, the streets were filled with a surging crowd at as late an hour as 9 o'clock—hundreds standing on the street corners waiting for a chance to board the electric cars running in every direction.

There is said to be more money paid out in Pittsburgh and vicinity weekly than in any similar spot in the world. Workmen receive high wages and spend freely, which makes business phenomenally active.

The great department stores keep open until 10 o'clock at night and do more business after sundown than during the day.

The city had the appearance of a gala day instead of an ordinary Saturday night.

By daylight you see the massive business houses; banks as fine as any in Philadelphia; inclines up the steep hills within the city and across the Monongahela, without which they would be inaccessible. Hills so steep as to be nearly valueless, and making the level spots almost of fabulous value.

A cake store of modest size pays a rental of $3,600 a year, and other things are in proportion.

One railroad, despairing of finding an entrance otherwise, is about tunnelling Mt. Washington, one of the sentinels which guard the city on the south.

Upon the banks of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers cluster the iron works, including the famous Homestead, a name familiar all over the country as the spot where Andrew Carnegie coined his millions out of which he is now beautifying the land and gladdening the hearts of thousands, as the Carnegie libraries rise on hilltop and plain, all over the whole land.

I had expected to see a few homes of elegance and beauty, but was not prepared for the array of noble mansions which greeted my eyes.

The country is undulating, so that it has been easy to select points of advantage in building—the result being most admirable—each owner having a splendid outlook without encroaching upon the rights of his neighbor.

The church life of the city is on a par with the material prosperity. I attended a church five miles out and found an exceedingly prosperous condition. Every seat in the spacious edifice was filled, and it became necessary to open the great doors connected with the chapel to accommodate the people.

Just before leaving the city on Monday evening the pastor's wife with the lady principal of the public school called at the house where we were visiting. The door bell rang and our host resorted two delegates from another church who had called to invite the household to join them at their place of worship.

The whole air is charged with electricity. You feel it in every step you take and in every hand you grasp. Great is Pittsburgh, you exclaim. Great is its present achievements, and greater still its possibilities for the future. It has but one rival, and that, the wonderful city of Chicago.

BUDGET OF HARD LUCK TALES TOLD

Far from Home Without a Dollar Is a Serious Situation.

SEVERAL Pittsburgh gentlemen were seated in their comfortable club a few days ago talking, and the finally switched on to times when they were caught far from home and mother and without a dollar.

"I was once caught in the peculiar position of having negotiable paper in my pocket, but unable to raise a cent," said one. "I was in Colorado Springs and had spent all my ready cash. In Denver, where I was well-known, I had deposited $850, taking a certificate of deposit. Now, you know my name is Francis L., and it is not very hard to make it feminine. The teller in the bank in Denver was too friendly with me, and when he made out the certificate, he made it out to 'Frances L., payable to herself.'

"I never noticed that little peculiarity in the paper till I tried to have it cashed by a banker with whom I was casually acquainted, having met him in my hotel. Result, suspicion and no cash. I believe I was suspected of having murdered the mysterious Miss Frances until the paper went to Denver and back, and proved my signature was good. But I was dead broke for two days as a result of having a facetious friend."

"My greatest trouble happened in London," said another. "London is a long way from home, and I didn't know a soul in the city. I was daily expecting a remittance, and thought nothing of my running short, until I awoke one morning with just a shilling in my pocket. I got an elaborate breakfast with that, as least as elaborate as the funds would permit, then went to the postoffice to get my letter. It wasn't there. That meant no lunch. I went again in the afternoon. No letter. That meant no dinner. I had to take it out in sleep, as I had the luck of having a bed paid for. I dreamed of being at a banquet, surrounded by a thousand men from Pittsburgh, from any one of whom I could have secured a hundred, and just as the soup appeared I awoke. After an hour of misery, I went to sleep and got as far as the quail, then awoke again. I got up and walked around the room, and finally got so tired that I went to bed and slept without being bothered by a banquet.

"I almost beat the clerks to the postoffice the next morning, and I beat the letter, too, for it had not yet arrived. It was one long day of hunger for me, and I vowed no man who told me he was hungry would ever again be refused the wherewithal to buy a meal, no matter how much he looked like a fake.

"By the second morning I was desperate and prepared for murder. Again there was no letter. I decided to drop around to the American consulate, hoping against hope I might meet some one I knew. Not a soul looked like home, and I braced up and told the official on duty my name and address and was just ready to make a hot touch for a square meal when he interrupted me.

"'There has been a letter here for you for several days,' he said, having remembered my name because it is one of those peculiar ones that sticks to a man when he once hears it.

"I quickly tore open the letter, and there was the long-looked for credit. It had been lying at the consulate all the time I had been starving."

"You fellows don't know what it is to be broke," said the third member of the party. "Each of you had money in sight, and were only temporarily embarrassed. Now, I have been broke, and so far from the possibility of making a raise that I would have taken a job digging sewers if I could have got the pay in advance.

"I was in the little town of Rosedale, in the southern part of Oregon. How I happened to be there is no matter. I was there and awoke one morning with a howling appetite and nothing with which to satisfy it. Where did I sleep? I'm not going to tell you. That has nothing to do with the tale. I slept all right, though. A good cold dip in the creek made a new man of me, made me feel like a king incognito. But my purse was so far from kingly that I was sorely tempted to call the back door act.

"I was walking along the street, when just ahead of me I spied a silver dime. It shone like the north star. Between me and the dime was another man. He was nearer by six feet when I saw it. But I got the dime, all right. Never mind what happened to the other man. I will admit he was somewhat surprised just as he stooped to pick it up, but I was some distance away when he recovered from his surprise and did not wait to listen to his remarks on the subject.

"You will admit a dime is hardly big enough to get a breakfast, but it saved my life, or what is equal, my self-respect. No, I will not tell just how I invested it, but I am thankful I have never since been so near the precipice.

IT WAS Friday. The children were fond of fish and hailed the day with delight.

"Oh, mamma, here comes the seaman," called Willie, as he slipped down from his perch at the sitting room window and ran to the kitchen, followed by his little sister. There came a rap at the door and the little girl opened it while the mother brought the bright new pan into which was tossed the fish ordered by the father on his way to town. Willie hid behind his mother, scarcely daring to peep out until the door was closed, when he shyly touched with one chubby finger the shining thing lying so quietly in the pan his mother held.

Warmth With Economy.

From the Chicago Tribune.

If your hair is not so already have it dyed a coal black or auburn. Draw the window curtains, so you cannot see the fire escape. Hang up a picture of the Chicago fire and another of Mont Pelee. Cultivate three or four boils. Think of Sarah Bernhardt. Eat things that will cause heartburn. Don't give bridge parties; you may get cold feet. Play "Hot Time" all the evening. Forget to mail the missus' letters. Collaborate with your neighbor on a gas stove. Eat plenty of pepper. Smoke up. Fire the cook. Use W. E. Mason's brand of hot air. Borrow a hot box from some engineer; he doesn't need it. Hun

DRINKING BOUT ENDS IN DEATH

Young Girl Dies in Terrible Agony and Companion is Seriously Ill.

A PUNXSUTAWNEY CRIME

Pittsburgh Woman, With Young Companion and Two Men, Are Involved—One Man Is Under Arrest.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Punxsutawney, Pa., Oct. 5.—A tragedy occurred here last night at the St. Elmo restaurant which resulted in the death of Agnes Tompkins, 15 years old, daughter of Leroy Tompkins of DuBois, and the serious illness of her companion, Mrs. Merlotte Hogenlogler of No. 26 Boyd street, Pittsburgh.

The two, in company with L. M. Miller, a traveling salesman, and Al Weber, a lumber merchant of Dayton, Pa., were drinking from a bottle early in the evening, and when that was finished they decided to visit the saloons. Weber became so intoxicated that it was necessary to put him to bed before they could leave the house. The two women, with Miller, visited several hotels, and a number of drinks were taken in each place, the Tompkins girl ordering whisky in each, while Miller drank beer.

The Tompkins girl not only drank her own, but emptied the contents of her companion's glasses as well. After having some trouble with a porter at one of the hotels, Miller and the Tompkins girl separated from Mrs. Hogenlogler, who promised to meet them at another hotel later in the evening.

At 10 o'clock Mrs. Hogenlogler returned to the boarding house, not being able to find her friends at the appointed place, and when she came into the house she heard the girl screaming with pain, and calling to her brother to come to her assistance. Miller, with some of the employes of the house, were doing what they could to quiet her, but she was unable to recognize anyone.

They finally succeeded in getting her to her room, and Dr. Hearn was called, but he was unable to control the violent spasms from which the girl was suffering. Dr. Hamilton was then summoned, and just as he arrived the Hogenlogler woman, who up until this time has been attending her companion, also went into spasms.

Dr. Walters was summoned, and the three physicians did all in their power to relieve the terrible suffering of the victims, and were successful in the case of Mrs. Hogenlogler, who regained consciousness early this morning. The Tompkins girl died at 6 a. m.

Miller was arrested and two agents who have been working with him here were detained as witnesses. Acting Coroner Justice Corey empaneled a jury and District Attorney Murray conducted the hearing of a number of witnesses. An autopsy was held over the body of the dead girl this afternoon, and the coroner's jury will meet again tomorrow to hear further evidence, and a report of the autopsy.

The girl died in the greatest agony, and her cries could be heard for a square away. She struck her chest, over the heart, and beat her arms until they were blackened and bruised.

Word was sent her father at DuBois, who arrived here this afternoon and took charge of the remains. The Hogenlogler woman will recover, it is thought, although she has suffered several attacks during the day. She can as yet give no light on the matter, as she has been unable to talk. Miller will say nothing.

FLORIDA'S GOVERNOR FOR EXTRA SESSION

He Would Have a Compulsory Arbitration Statue Passed by Congress.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BROOKSVILLE, FLA., Oct. 5.—"If the situation is as grave as set forth by the president in his statement presented at the conference, stating that the situation itself vitally affects the public, and disclaiming 'any right or duty to intervene upon legal grounds,' then it is my opinion," said Gov. Jennings to day, "that the president should convene congress in extraordinary session without delay and urge the enactment of just laws covering the whole situation.

"These laws should empower the appointment of arbitrators, provide for arbitration as a means of settling disputes between all parties concerned, including power to the interstate commerce commission to fix reasonable rates for transportation, and enforce them.

"The laws should make it the duty of the president to intervene, and establish 'legal grounds' for him to intervene or to protect the public from 'appalling' and 'intolerable' situations and a fuel famine, and against the avarice of corporate demands, combination and greed."

Army Costing Less.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—According to the annual report of the paymaster general, army expenditures decreased during the past fiscal year $818,919, as compared with the preceding year, partly owing to decrease in the pay of the army and in part owing to a reduction of claims for extra pay by volunteers. The total expenditures made by Paymaster General Bates were $52,528,479.

SUNRISE PRAYER BEGINS SABBATH

Impressive Services at Annual Convention of Ohio Christian Endeavors.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ZANESVILLE, O., Oct. 5.—The 3,000 delegates to the Christian Endeavor state convention began the Sabbath with a sunrise prayer meeting on Putnam hill, an eminence 150 feet above the Muskingum river, and overlooking the entire city. It was led by Vinton M. Pace, president of the Columbus City union. The topic was "A Searching Question."

This forenoon the Christian Endeavor pastors filled the pulpits of the local churches, and the services were given over to convention subjects. At 3 o'clock this afternoon three great mass meetings were held, one for men, one for women, and one for children.

Dr. Clark led the Memorial hall meeting for men only, and stirred his audience to great enthusiasm. He counseled his hearers to lead moral lives. Mrs. Julia Gerould of Cleveland had charge of the meeting for women at the First Presbyterian church.

The convention closed with another mass meeting tonight in Memorial hall. Melville Ritchie of Cincinnati drew a vivid contrast between the church and the saloon, and asked his hearers to help build up the church and tear down the saloon.

Dr. Frances Clark made his farewell address, and on special invitation told more of his trip to Europe. The final address was made by Bishop Arnett of the African Methodist church.

M'DOWELL'S ESTIMATE.

Predicts a Majority of from 150,000 to 200,000 for Pennypacker—Ballot Reform No Factor.

SHARON, PA., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Pennypacker will be elected governor by a majority of more than 150,000. I believe it may reach 200,000. In Philadelphia he will have a majority of 110,000."

This was the estimate made here by Alexander McDowell, clerk of the national house of representatives. When asked his opinion of the Ballot Reform party, he stated he did not believe it would cut much figure with the general result.

"If anything, the new party will make inroads on the vote of the Democratic party, and is already causing dissension in that party. The outlook is unusually bright and the Republican organization was never better united."

Maj. McDowell leaves here tomorrow to stump the state for Pennypacker.

FREE BAPTISTS IN ASSOCIATION

State Agency Is Offered to the Rev. J. W. Williams of Bellevernon.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BELLEVERNON, PA., Oct. 5.—Pennsylvania Free Baptists decided in favor of forming a state association at a meeting yesterday and last night. A state agent is to be employed to do missionary work. The Rev. J. W. Williams of the Bellevernon church has been asked to take this agency, but he has not announced himself ready to assume the place.

The occasion was the fall session of the Southwestern Pennsylvania quarterly meeting. The Rev. S. W. Weed of Jannerstown was moderator and the Rev. J. W. Williams of Bellevernon secretary. This quarterly and that of Armstrong county united in forming the new yearly meeting of the Free Baptists of Western Pennsylvania.

A constitution was adopted and these officers elected: The Rev. I. E. Shoemaker, Armstrong county, moderator; A. J. Marston, Bellevernon, secretary.

The principal objects were the forming of a general state association and the inauguration of a state agency. To this end a council of six was named to form a federation of the churches.

Pennsylvania Free Baptists churches have no ecclesiastical state body, being connected with New York and Ohio organizations. There is a central aid an eastern association, but they are not represented in the central conference. There is also a Pennsylvania association composed of the Potter, Tioga and Bradford county churches, but it is to be combined with the new organization.

Car Loaded With Dynamite Badly Wrecked, but No Explosion Occurs.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUTLER, PA., Oct. 5.—A freight train on the West Penn railroad tonight ran clear through a train on the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad where the two roads cross in the yards here. The West Penn train was in charge of Conductor Frank Dixon of Freeport. Engineer Gib Kennedy of Freeport and Fireman Frank Gerrard of Butler, were on the engine.

After plowing through the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh train the West Penn engine left the track, turned over on its side and slid down a ten-foot embankment. Both engineer and fireman remained in the cab and escaped injury, although the engine is a complete wreck. None of the train crews were injured, but Robert Thompson, flagman at the crossing, was slightly cut about the face by being struck by pieces of the wreck. Eight cars were torn to splinters, and one of the worst wrecked was loaded with dynamite, but none of it exploded. Traffic on both roads will be blocked all night.

A HOME UNIVERSITY

Some years ago many eminent teachers were paid a high price to write down in plain language all that was known of the branch of learning that each teacher had made his own. Thus the great mathematician was to write down plainly and succinctly the great truths of mathematics. The historian wrote of history, and the geographer of the countries of the world. And so with every branch of human knowledge.

These great teachers labored for years and finally completed their task. The result was gathered together in logical order and printed in clean, plain type and illustrated with beautifully clear engravings as an assistance to the memory and to vivify the text. The whole was strongly and neatly bound and carefully indexed. Then it was given to that portion of the world who could afford to pay a high price for the wonderful work, which was called the

ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA.

It is a university in itself, this work, for it neglects no branch of knowledge in which men are interested.

American enterprise has at last brought it within easy reach of all. You can have it in your own home for ten cents a day. The poor young man can have no better university. The presence of the Encyclopaedia Britannica makes a University of the humblest cottage.

Your best friend is the neat bookcase containing the Encyclopaedia Britannica. You become a student at the best of all universities—the university at home. Your teacher is always at your elbow and requires no food and but little house room.

Do you want the facts of history? Consult it. Do you want the eternal truths of mathematics? Consult it. Do you want mythology? Science? Art? Consult it. Are you interested in the animal kingdom? Consult it.

You have in your bookcase all the most eminent teachers of the world. When you need them, call them out separately or conjointly. They never fail to respond.

The pages of this great library will make you an expert along any line you may wish to investigate. To own such a work, therefore, becomes a duty, especially as it is just now so easy to secure it. What Is Said of It.
"It is without a peer in the whole noble army of encyclopedias."—LYMAN ABBOTT, D. D.
"The Encyclopaedia Britannica is king of its tribe."—PROF. DAVID SWING.
"The most useful reference book for young or old is the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Children, beginning at 10 years old and on, need its stores of historical, biographical, mythological, elementary-scientific, and natural history information. The eager boy can study balloons, kinds of dogs or firearms, locomotives, habits of the housefly or cockroach. The youth may want information on subjects from geology or electricity to the settlements of the Fiji Islands, or volcanoes and earthquakes, or a most fascinating story of Napoleon; and for the full rules of the fundamental conceptions of law, medicine, theology, ethics, sociology, curves and functions, architecture, art—all the way up, perhaps to the origin of some fine editorial on Chinese metaphysics. Whether for education or information, no man who owns this book will ever let himself or his children be without constant access to it. If another deluge came and the ark had room but for one secular book, this is beyond any doubt the one."—CLEMENT BAIRD, Judge of Court, Cincinnati, O.

STRONG POINTS IN CHRISTIANITY

The Rev. E. M. Wood Discusses the Church of the Present Day.

ADVANCEMENT SHOWN

Christianity Is Leading, Not Following, Civilization to Higher Ground — Days of Apostolic Heroism Have Not Passed.

"Some Strong Points in the Christianity of Today" was the subject upon which the Rev. E. M. Wood, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, preached yesterday.

"There are two ways of viewing Christianity, the one as represented by its founder, and the other as it is manifested by the church and Christian people," said the preacher. "And as to the first, it must be correct and cannot embody any essential moral error or else it is not divine. But as to Christianity as represented by Christian people, so known among men, it may be true or false, it may be erroneous or truthful, it may be in accordance with the principles laid down by its founder, or it may be a perversion of those principles. It is of Christianity as represented by Christian people, specially in modern times, of which I wish to speak.

"It is certain that Christianity has not manifested itself uniformly in all ages, nor has its development and influence been equal in every age. The fundamental principles of Christianity must ever remain the same because they are principles which man needs in every age and under every possible condition of the race. But the interpretation and application of these principles, the forms and methods of the out-working of these principles, have been various and doubtless will continue to be various.

Evidence of Advancement.

"The church of today would not tolerate New England puritanism in its extremes. It would not tolerate some of the religious practices of Luther, of Calvin, or of John Wesley, and because of this many have concluded that the church has retrograded. But many believe that the church has advanced, that it more nearly now than ever before represents the essential truths as taught by Christ.

"The Christianity of today has its strong points. Indeed, every age of Christianity has had its strong points. In the times of Christ it was miracles. In the time of the apostles it was the crucifixion and the resurrection of Christ. In the early church it was its distinction from paganism on the one hand and Judaism on the other, later denouncing heresies and forming creeds. In the days of Luther it was individualism as opposed to ecclesiasticism. In the days of Wesley it was personal religious life and assurance of acceptance of Christ as opposed to formalism. But what are the strong points of today?

"To the intelligent man, to the scholar, one strong point is the historical confirmation of Christianity as shown by the manuscripts which have been discovered, in those monolithic inscriptions which have been exhumed. In fact, the whole rich realm of archaeology is today pouring its treasures at the feet of Christ.

"Another strong point is that Christianity has shown itself, not only to be adapted to a high state of civilization, but that it is still leading, not following, that civilization on to higher ground. Great minds instead of being dwarfed are developed and broadened more and more by its teachings. Another strong point is its readiness to discover and seize strategic points. As soon as the Philippine islands are opened to western civilization, bishops and missionaries set sail for those islands, and soon churches are built, the gospel is preached and Sunday schools opened for the instruction of the young. The days of apostolic heroism have not passed away.

Fertility and Versatility.

"Another strong point is the fertility and versatility of method which Christianity employs. A few years ago many supposed the church was confined in its methods of work to a few stated services, but now they behold its wonderful fertility of method. And I regard this as the strongest point in modern Christianity in its outward aspect, especially commending itself to the thoughtful people of this age.

"Another strong point in favor of modern Christianity is its greatly improved personnel. No longer is the minister looked upon as a semi-serio-comic being, whose only place in society is in the pulpit on Sunday. He is a real, practical citizen. His presence and influence is sought in every great civil and economic movement."

THE REV. E. M. WOOD.

WILL DECIDE ON THE NEW CHURCH

CONGREGATION WILL EXAMINE PLANS.

Building Committee and Church Officers Elected—Consistory Organized.

At a meeting of the consistory of the Reformed Church of the Ascension yesterday, it was decided to hold a special meeting on October 20, to decide on the acceptance of the plans of the new church and the selection of an architect and a builder. The congregation, the Rev. Albert C. Diefenbach, pastor, has been meeting in the Masonic hall in Bellevue, but the handsome $10,000 church will be located on Termon avenue, near California avenue, Allegheny.

The congregation met yesterday and the following officers were ordained and installed: Elders, S. J. Myers and John Garver; deacons, W. J. Poschmann, Henry G. Riese and John Weitzel; trustees, Charles H. Wilson and H. M. McCall. These officers make up the consistory, of which the pastor is ex-officio president. The consistory organized, and Mr. Poschmann was elected secretary and Mr. Riese, treasurer.

A building committee consisting of Messrs. Myers, Riese and McCall was elected. Mr. McCall is the chairman of the committee. John Garver was elected a delegate to the Pittsburgh synod, which is to meet in Jeannette tomorrow. A catechetical class was organized. It will be instructed by the pastor until Easter and then confirmed.

The text of the Rev. Mr. Diefenbach's sermon was Paul's admonition to the church at Ephesus, "Put on the Man." Eighty-five per cent of the promoters of religious enterprises and of everything that pertains to the higher life in this country, such as music, art, literature and ethical culture, were women, the preacher said. Why were not more men interested? Paul used the word "man" in the generic sense, while the speaker used it in the masculine sense. To make religion vital it must be promulgated, now as always, by men. The fact that women predominate was not due to woman's inherent powers and capabilities, but because of the fact that men had hitherto been engaged in developing the material resources of the country, and religion and the things of the higher life had been diverted to women, so that women, by force of numbers and activity, naturally monopolized the promotion of religion and other phases of the higher life.

Hence had come the new woman. There should never have been the new woman, and when men ceased devoting themselves to the material and took up the religious, the ethical, the spiritual, the preponderance of women in the field would cease. The entrance of the new man would make the exit of the new woman. The influence of the mother of Augustine, of Gregory, of Nazianzen and of John Chrysostom might be urged against his point of view, but those women exerted their influence through home life.

FAREWELL SERMON AFTER SIX YEARS

The Rev. Dr. J. W. Miles Says He Will Not Return to Wilkinsburg Church.

The Rev. Dr. J. W. Miles, pastor of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Wilkinsburg, who has been with the congregation for six years, preached his farewell sermon yesterday morning. The Rev. Dr. Miles announced that he would not return to the pastorate of the South Avenue church, but the members of his congregation are trying to get him to reconsider his determination. They are unanimously in favor of his return and strong pressure will be brought to bear upon conference and upon him to continue as pastor of that church.

During the Rev. Dr. Miles' pastorate of this church its membership has doubled and the good work he has accomplished is appreciated.

A prominent layman of the Methodist Episcopal church offers $500 for the Pittsburgh conference permanent annuity fund on condition that it be made the means of urging others to help in raising such a sum as shall be a notable addition to the fund. He makes no specific conditions.

The twentieth century commission and conference committee on the permanent annuity fund have accepted his offer and resolved to attempt the raising of a fund of at least $5,000, to be named "the Latshaw McGuire fund," in honor of one who has been a faithful soldier of the church and of his country. They strongly desire that this amount be pledged before the close of the conference year.

Semi-Annual Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting of the Allegheny Presbyterian missionary society will be held in the United Presbyterian church in Sewickley, next Thursday. In the afternoon Mrs. H. C. Campbell, well known in many lines of philanthropic work, will give an account of a visit to the United Presbyterian mission among the Warm Spring Indians, and Miss Spencer, home on furlough from missionary work in India, will give "A Peep Into Some Zenanas." The women of the valley are looking with much pleasure toward the meeting.

WHERE IS THE FAULT IN MODERN PREACHING?

The Rev. W. S. Danley Discusses a Timely Question from His Pulpit in McKeesport.

The Rev. W. S. Danley of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, McKeesport, preached last evening on the question, "What ails the preaching?" His text was taken from Hosea iv:9, "Like people, like priest."

"The prophet's meaning is that the people greatly fix the character of their teachers," said he. "They make the atmosphere for the preacher. He can hardly live in or even warm, in an ice box. There is no effort here to shift responsibility from the shoulders of the people. It is their business to change things. The people. The right kind of preaching will do that. It is true of many that the preachers present years have not found the preaching to the people of these days. Layman says the trouble with the preaching of our day is that it is 'all cut and all speculative talk.'

"What does the preacher need now? Why, for one thing. He has to make talks' that he has no time left for sermons like those of Jonathan Edwards. He must these days spread himself so thin that he can hit hard with his social cares are immense. He must be up late too many nights. Strong coffee give him indigestion. He needs also a good audience, both in body and size. He needs men to hear him. They would knock fire out of the pews if the men are at home or somewhere else. The preacher is left with the congregation and he feels they are already better than he is. Much of the motive to preach is taken away.

"But the preacher for today is a manly man. He is full of grit, like John the Baptist, Paul, Barnabas, Christ. He speaks the truth without fear of consequences.

"For Christ's sake, and for the sake of perishing men let us discover what ails the preaching of our day, and apply the remedy without delay."

The Dyspeptic, despondent, overworked man, will find in Dr. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge a certain health-restorer.

SHERADEN CHURCH WAS DEDICATED

The First United Presbyterian Strcuture Had Initial Services Yesterday.

PASTOR IS ORGANIZER

The Rev. Dr. John McD. Hervey Built Congregation Up from Mission and Is Its First Minister—A Fine Building.

The First United Presbyterian church of Sheraden was dedicated yesterday with fitting exercises. Interest in the event was widespread among those of the United Presbyterian denomination in this vicinity, and the three services yesterday were attended by a large number of pastors from other churches.

The Rev. Dr. J. M. Wallace of the Eighth United Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh preached the dedication sermon and spoke interestingly on the results that had rewarded the efforts of the young congregation during the first year of its existence. The fact that the congregation was in a position to build and dedicate a church within a year after its organization, Dr. Wallace said, was ample evidence of the Christian spirit of those engaged in the church work.

A fraternal meeting was held in the afternoon at 3 o'clock, led by the Rev. J. E. Wishart, pastor of the Ingram United Presbyterian church. A number of brief addresses were made at this meeting.

A Week of Services.

The evening sermon was preached by the Rev. John McD. Hervey, pastor of the congregation. At this service the Rev. Dr. Hervey announced that there would be services held at the new church every night this week. The ministers who will assist Dr. Hervey during the week are: The Revs. W. W. Lawrence of Bellevue, W. R. Thompson of the Eleventh church, Pittsburgh; Herbert Hezlep of Sheraden, R. M. Blackwood of Coraopolis, and J. W. English of Robinson Run.

The new church building is of handsome brick construction with white stone trimmings, and is thoroughly modern throughout. Pastor Hervey has become prominent during his residence in this vicinity because of his industry in church circles.

Dr. Hervey was born in Jefferson county, O., May 9, 1866. He was graduated from the Normal college at Hopedale, O., and later from Bethany college, W. Va. In 1888 he entered the Allegheny Theological seminary and was graduated from there three years later. In 1895 he received the degree of Ph. D. from Westminster college.

Preached in Dugout.

The first year of his ministerial life was spent in the mountains of Colorado, where he preached to a meager congregation in a little church built of sod. Before he left the west Dr. Hervey saw the erection of a substantial wooden structure, that took the place of the dugout in which he first preached.

Dr. Hervey next took the pastorate of the Richmond, Ind., church, and later went to Dayton, O. In 1890 he went to Jeannette and built a church there, and for some time was pastor of the Thirty-third street United Presbyterian church. He built the church, belonging to that congregation, and little more than a year ago went to Sheraden to do some missionary work.

The organization of the First United Presbyterian church resulted from his labors and the dedication yesterday marked the beginning of the congregation's first year in their own building.

INTERESTING MEETINGS.

Sunday School Workers and Presbytery Gather in Wilkinsburg.

Much interest centers in the semi-annual meeting of the Presbyterian Sunday School association in the Wilkinsburg Presbyterian church this afternoon. There are 100 schools in the association, and the representation will be one for every 100 scholars. This will bring together not less than 500 workers.

Tomorrow morning the presbytery of Pittsburgh will convene in the same church and will take up all matters of business requiring attention before the annual meeting of the synod in Allegheny on October 16. The presbytery will have to pass on the revision overtures, and as all the larger presbyteries have given sanction to the proposed changes in the confession, it is expected that the local body will fall in line.

The 16 men elected to synod will at this time be given their commissions and will be instructed for whom to vote for the position of permanent clerk of the synod.

Meeting Was Postponed.

The meeting to form the Allegheny County Military Rifle and Revolver association, which was called for yesterday afternoon, has been postponed until next Sunday afternoon. The meeting was to have been held in the armory of Company G, Fourteenth Infantry, in Market street, but owing to the weather few of those interested put in an appearance.

THE REV. E. H. WARD.

WILL ALL LOST SOULS BE SAVED?

DR. WARD DISCUSSES BIBLICAL TYPES.

Counterparts of the Lost Sheep, the Lost Coin and the Lost Son in all Congregations.

The Rev. Dr. E. H. Ward, rector of St. Peter's P. E. church, preached yesterday morning upon the subject, "The Lost." His text was taken from St. Luke xix 10: "The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost." He said in part:

The word lost is found in the New Testament 11 times, and is used of a sheep, a coin and a human soul. The lost sheep, the lost coin and the lost son, each stand for a type of character found in every Christian congregation. The sheep unconsciously wandering away from the flock, in search of sweeter grass and clearer water, is a type of those frivolous persons who leave the church in the hope of finding something better in the pursuit of pleasure. The young man or woman who would only 'tread the primrise path of dalliance,' go farther and farther in questionable ways, until at last they cross the safety line and are numbered with the lost.

"The coin is lost through no fault of its own, but because of some other person's neglect. We have thousands of such souls in our great cities. You will find children 'shapen in iniquity and conceived in sin,' already mortgaged to the devil when brought into the world. They are reared in an atmosphere reeking with vice and crime, when the name of God is never heard, save in blasphemy. And yet these lost coins have on them the image and superscription of their maker.

"Then there is the lost son, who was in infancy consecrated to God in holy baptism, and brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.' He frets against the restraints of home and goes forth to enjoy the pleasure of sin and to eat the husks of sensual gratification fit only for swine to eat.

"These are three types of the lost given us by the Master, but they are not all. The words of the text are called forth by the conversion of Zaacheus, who was chief of the tax gatherers and a rich man. We do not know that he was a bad man, or that his life was vicious; we only know that he was out of spiritual relationship to God, and that was to be lost. He was lost to God, lost to goodness and sin was the fruit of that lost relationship. Humanity in its weakness and sin cries to God, and the incarnation is the answer to that cry. Christ comes to save men by dwelling in them and bleaching their sin-stained nature, making it at last as white as snow.

"When on earth, He saved publicans harlots, and He has been saving them ever since. If He cannot save a man in three score years, He may be able to do so in a thousand or a hundred thousand years, for He has eternity in which to work. Will He eventually save all men? All our sympathy, all that is most God-like within the soul, lead us to hope so and do not the Master's words spoken on the eve of His passion and death afford some basis for the hope? 'If I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me.' He refused to answer the question 'Are there few that be saved,' but the Revelator tells us that he saw before the throne a great multitude which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, clothed with white robes and palms in their hands.'"

HINT TO THE SULTAN.

Russian Grand Duke Calls Attention to Macedonian Trouble.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 5.—Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia had a long audience with the sultan last Friday and discussed the Macedonian situation. The grand duke assured the sultan of Russia's friendly desire to maintain order there. The sultan granted a farewell audience to his visitor today, and the grand duke sailed this afternoon for Livadia, on the Black sea.

Grand Duke Nicholas arrived at Constantinople on the Russian ironclad Georgi Pobiedonosetz, which, owing to the insistence of Russia, was permitted at the last moment to pass the forts.

BADE FAREWELL TO OLD CHURCH

First Baptist Structure in McKeesport Deserted After Thirty-Three Years.

SERVICES IMPRESSIVE

Roll of Honor Made Containing Names of Members Present at Last Service—Erection of Fine New Edifice Already Begun.

The congregation of the First Baptist church of McKeesport held services yesterday in their church building, at Walnut and Sixth avenues, for the last time. The church building has been used by the congregation for the past 35 years, and was recently sold for $65,000. It is to be razed to make room for a business building.

The congregation was organized 75 years ago, and is one of the oldest and largest in the Tube City. The Rev. J. A. Maxwell is the pastor and the congregation's last services in the old building were fittingly held and a roll of honor of the members present made, to become a part of the church history. In the evening, the last service, the pastor prepared a special sermon for the occasion and an elaborate musical program was rendered by the choir.

The congregation since selling their church have purchased a large lot at Locust and Olive streets and have already commenced the erection of a building on it, which when completed will cost $72,000. The services at the church were attended by the largest seen in a McKeesport church in years. The congregation will hold services in Blue Ribbon hall each Sunday hereafter, until their new church building is completed.

DR. BARNES TALKED ON "TURNING POINTS"

Likened Human Life to River With Its Ever Changing Surface and Flood.

In the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, the Rev. L. C. Barnes yesterday morning preached on "Turning Points in Life," taking for his texts, Matt. ix:22, "But when the young man heard the saying, he went away sorrowful," and John, iv:28, "So the woman left her water pot, and went away into the city, and saith to the people, 'Come see a man, who told me all the things that I ever did; can this be Christ?'" Dr. Barnes said in part:

"One of the finest young men in Palestine turned away from Christ, and so far as we know, never came back to him. And one of the lowest characters in Palestine turned toward Christ, and led many others to follow him. Life is plastic.

"The particles of the Ohio river change their relations to each other every inch of their whole course; every stone in the bed of the river, and every ripple on the surface cause changes, so that a former state is never restored.

"The best scientific understanding of the human spirit calls it a stream of life. It is permanent as well as plastic; not a single molecule of the river ever goes out of existence, however many changes of relation it may pass through.

"With human life the stream itself is never-ending and every change that has taken place in it produces permanent results. It is not only plastic and permanent, but pivoted on choice. A stupendous wonder it would be if the Ohio river were able to throw itself to one side or the other of Davis island by its own will. All the influences of the past in human history, and in the history of the universe, center in each moment of every human life; and out of that moment flow influences that reach as wide as humanity and as far as eternity.

"Making no choice is the worst form of choosing. The best life is offered and embodied in Christ. Will you turn toward it and take it from him?"

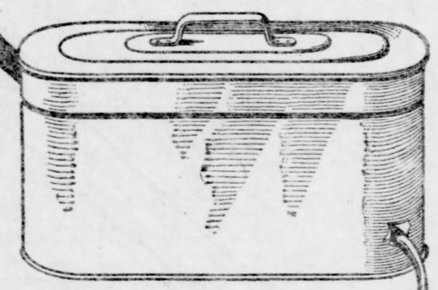
The Best Way to Stop a Leak



in your wash boiler is to throw the boiler away and use Walker's Soap. You'll have no further use for it, nor your washboard either. It dissolves the dirt and cleans your clothes without boiler, board or backache. It is easy on the woman, easy on the clothes. The only way to wash clothes with least work.

WALKER'S SOAP

Contains no alkali or unwholesome fats. The wrapper tells all about the new way of washing without working. See that the game rooster is on the wrapper—it marks the genuine, all others are imitators. Get the best and leave the rest.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—When Johnny Kling wrapped his big mitt around "Oom Paul" Kruger's pop foul at League park this afternoon the National league season of 1902 in St. Louis came to an end. The Cardinals and Cubs acted as formal pallbearers in the obsequies, and a slim and half-frozen gathering of faithful rooters were present at the benediction.

Selee's men were vindictive to the last, for they sunk the gaff twice in the hapless Donovanites. Few, if any, of the mourners cared to see a second game, but the double killing was pulled off, the last gasp being a five-inning affair. The scores were 11 to 4 and 6 to 5, with a Chicago accent on both.

Faithful to the last some 300 died-in-the-wool fans shivered through the final spasms. It was such a bizarre ending to what promised to be a brilliant season that the less said of it the better. Without Donovan and Farrell the Cardinals presented a patched-up front.

The field was soft and sticky and there was a chill in the air that made the spectators wince with sympathy whenever a player put his hands on a bat-hit ball. The sky was hung with gray clouds and the early dusk of the dreary afternoon caught the second game in the fifth inning.

No one was sorry when the umpire dismissed the spectators. From frequent contact with the muddy field, the balls softened and went "dead" and toward the last the fielders had to strain their eyes to follow the spheres.

Jim Hackett and Bon Wicker pitched the losing games against Southpaw Harry and Pop Williams, who were just as bad as they were, but who were given a semblance of support, while the Cardinals' twirlers had none at all.

Otto Williams, a St. Louis boy, who has been doing stunts in the short field for Memphis this season, took Kruger's place at short, the latter going to third. Williams worked under very disadvantageous conditions, but made a showing that promised better things.

BROKE WORLD'S RECORD.

Champions Won Last Game of Season from the Cincinnati Reds Saturday.

By winning the last scheduled game of the season from the Cincinnati Reds at Exposition park Saturday afternoon, by a score of 11 to 2, the champions established a new world's record. They have won 103 games and lost 36 on a schedule of 140.

The last contest was one of the most farcical ever played on a baseball diamond. Manager Joe Kelley of the Reds was sore because he was compelled to bring his team on the damp grounds. He sent Jake Beckley to the slab, who lasted for a few innings, and then Seymour and finally Donlin went in. Phillippe pitched well for Pittsburgh. The score:

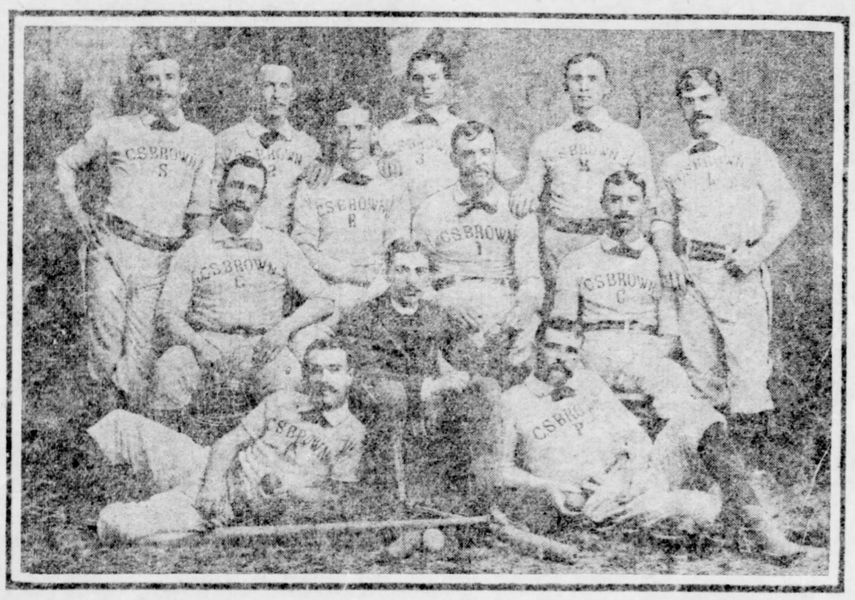
THE CHARLEY BROWNS.



A Baseball Organization Which Was Famous in 1880 and Which Older Fans Will Remember.

EAST END ELEVEN HAS BEEN CHOSEN

ONE OF STRONGEST TEAMS SINCE P. A. C.

Schedule Complete, but One Date—Lyceum Club to Open Season Next Saturday.

After three weeks of the hardest kind of practice Coach Joe Heh and Capt. John Willis of the East End Athletic football team yesterday selected the members of the regular eleven for the season. The first team will be one of the strongest football organizations that has existed in the East End since the days of the famous Pittsburgh Athletic club and it is expected that the team will win the majority of its games scheduled.

The members of the team are: Elmer Willis, left end; Ed Smucker, left guard; Charles Heh, left tackle; John Bloom, center; Joe Heh, coach and right end; Dee McChesney, right tackle; Burton Hetzel, right guard; Elmer Musselman, quarter back; John Willis, captain and left half back; Elmer Wilson, right half back, and Archie Rowan, Jr., full back.

Beside the regular team the management has arranged for a strong scrub eleven, which will be used in all practice and many of the members of the scrub team will be carried along with the regular team for substitutions. The following is a full list of the subs: Backs, Tom Wilson, Frank Rugh and Shannon; guards, James and Mike Burke and Harry McMannus; tackles, Ed Bushing and Ed Carr.

The appearance of Archie Rowan, Jr., at full back for the East End team will cause the eleven to be much stronger than was at first expected. Rowan is a well-known college player, a fine kicker and one of the best line buckers and hurdlers in the business. As a line hurdler he is second only to Harold Weeks of Columbia, who made such a sensational record against nearly all of the eastern college teams last year.

Elmer Musselman, at quarter back, is a good, heady player. He played the position on Lehigh eleven for four years and has since played with the Lalus and East End teams. John Willis at left half will be a tower of strength to the team. He was with D. C. and A. C. in 1900.

The season schedule of the East End Athletic team is complete with the exception of Thanksgiving Day. Manager Welsh has just closed with the Lyceum team for next Saturday instead of the A. A. A. at Friendship park. The game with the A. A. A. eleven has been transferred to Saturday, October 18.

The East End team will meet the Pittsburgh eleven at Colosseum park, Allegheny, on Saturday, October 25, and the following Saturday, November 1, Walsh's team will meet the Maryland A. C. at Baltimore, Md. Oil City has the election day date and a special excursion will likely be run from Pittsburgh for the game.

GREAT FUN EXPECTED AT PIRATES' FIELD DAY

Many Events Have Been Scheduled. Ball Game Will Close the Program.

Great interest is being manifested by the baseball public of Pittsburgh in the field day of the champions at Exposition park this afternoon. Every member of the Pirate crew has worked hard this season and there is every reason to believe that a good crowd will go to the park to give the twice pennant winners of the National league a rousing sendoff.

The management of the field day has been given over to Chief Zimmer, who has completed all arrangements for the affair, and if the weather proves favorable the meet will be one of the most successful ever held by a Pittsburgh team. The first feature on the program will be a fox chase, which will be followed by the egg race. The entire team will take part in the sack race.

The 100-yard dash between Clarke, Beaumont, Leach, Sebring and Phelps will be a close race, as all the contestants have been practicing for the event. Of course there is no possibility that a world's record will be broken, but the race will be exciting just the same.

The last event scheduled is a ball game between a team called the Grays, headed by Manager Clarke, and the Whites, captained by Hans Wagner. The two teams will line up as follows:

Grays.	Whites.
Zimmer..... Catcher	.....Smith
Chesbro ..... Pitcher	.....Phillippe
Bransfield..... First Base	.....Phelps
Merritt..... Second Base	.....McLaughlin
Barbeau..... Third Base	.....Leach
Conroy..... Shortstop	.....Wagner

Clarke..... Center Field	.....Ritchey

GAME ENDED A TIE.

Sharon Independents and All-Stars of Eastern Ohio Played Five Innings.

SHARON, PA., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—The All-Stars of Eastern Ohio and the Independents played a five-inning game here today in mud and rain, which resulted in a tie. The pitching of Crum was good, considering the slippery condition of the ball. The visitors tied the score in the fifth on two bases on balls and two hits. Score: R.H.E.

MATHEWSON WILL REPORT THIS WEEK

New York's Star Pitcher to Join Pittsburgh Football Team.

GREENSBURG, Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Manager David Berry of the Pittsburgh eleven has made arrangements to have the game with the Western University of Pennsylvania, postponed on Saturday, played on Wednesday.

The rain of Saturday made the park a sea of mud. The squad were not allowed to lay off, however, Coach Richardson putting them through three hours' work at Electric park.

Joe Donohoe, the Greensburg boy signed last week, is showing excellent form and will in all probability be a fixture at end. Donohoe is one of the fastest ends that ever played on a professional football eleven in Western Pennsylvania, and when in condition is rated among the best in the country. Mathewson reports on Tuesday. The big New York pitcher wires that he is in good condition. He is expected to take part in Wednesday's game.

With Mathewson at full the Pittsburgh eleven will have one of the best punters in the league. He is especially strong at catching and returning punts, and it is thought he will add great strength to the back field.

ALL AMERICANS WON.

Defeated Cincinnati Team in the First Game of Exhibition Series.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5.—The All-Americans won the first of the series here today in an exciting game.

The crowd held their seats until the last man was out, as the Cincinnati team had a beautiful chance to tie the score in the ninth, but the necessary hit was not forthcoming.

The weather was too cold for a large attendance. Score by innings:

All-Americans	5	8	1

TO FIGHT IN 'FRISCO.

McGovern-Young Corbett Bout Will Be Decided Week of December 15.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The featherweight championship battle between Young Corbett and Terry McGovern, which has been postponed twice since the lads were first matched, will be decided in San Francisco during the week beginning on December 15.

Both fighters have already agreed to go to the coast and fight, and have also informed the matchmakers of the different clubs out there that they will box before the club that offers them the most money. Bids for the contest will be opened on November 15, and the club that offers the biggest purse will secure the bout.

Meantime the boys will box in limited round bouts, Corbett has already signed to fight three men within five weeks. His first contest will be with Eddie Lenny of Chester, Pa., for six rounds at the Industrial Athletic club in Philadelphia, on Tuesday night. After this Corbett will tackle Joe Bernstein at Baltimore, in a 10-round bout before the Eureka Athletic club, on October 16.

His third and last encounter will be with Austin Rice of New London. This will be a 20-round battle, and will be decided before the Waterbury Athletic club on October 23. Corbett is disappointed at not meeting McGovern.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE FORMED.

Organization Will Be a Strong One. Schedule Will Be Adopted Shortly.

The Interstate Basketball league was formed in Pittsburgh yesterday at a meeting of the promoters. The meeting was presided over by F. L. Roberts of the D. C. & A. C. team, and Honus Wagner's Carnegie team was represented by W. S. Haddock.

The following officers were elected: President, F. B. McQuiston; secretary, L. B. Nugent, Steubenville, and treasurer, W. Scott Sullivan, Pittsburgh. Each team is limited to 10 players. The season opens the first week in December. The schedule and rules committee will be appointed in a few days. A team may be added to the league from East End.

KEENE TO SUCCEED AUGUST BELMONT

HE MAY BECOME CHAIRMAN OF JOCKEY CLUB.

Horsemen Are Dissatisfied Because Racing Rules Are Not Enforced.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—It is a possibility that James R. Keene may succeed August Belmont as the head of the Jockey club next year. Horsemen all over the country are very much dissatisfied with the lack of enforcement of rules of the turf.

What is required is some strong man to take charge of affairs and stop all transgressions against the rules. August Belmont, the present head of the Jockey club, is too busy just now to attend to turf matters, and in other hands the laws are not enforced rigidly enough.

The place needs a man like James R. Keene, who is thoroughly in touch with every curve and angle of racing. He is not afraid of "publicity," and wherever he found a man who was transgressing the rules that man would be made to walk the plank. Mr. Keene is lost as vice chairman of the Jockey club. He should be at the head of it and turn the rascals out.

At the present time it is run in slipshod fashion. Horsemen, trainers and jockeys do just as they please, and there is nobody, apparently, ready to check them.

The stewards of the various meetings do their work in a listless manner. Many fail to act, fearful of incurring responsibility; the remainder of the officials are afraid of publicity.

If there is one thing more than another that the Jockey club stewards of America is afraid of it is scandal. Rather than have some of the wrongdoing on the turf exposed to public view they seek to hush it up and smother it out.

There is a law against "touting," but it is never enforced. These pests of the turf have become so numerous and bold that they can be found in every nook and cranny of the grounds. In order to sell their "information" they unscrupulously advertise that certain races are "fixed" and that they will sell the winner of it for $5.

These brazen parasites, by their lying advertisements, do more harm to the sport in a season than any publicity of detected fraud could do. They tend to injure the public's confidence in the strict integrity of racing and make its supporters believe that it is rotten to the core.

LEACH'S FINE PLAYING

It Is Sensational at Times and a Feature of the Contest—Large Crowd Was There to Witness the Game.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Canton, O., Oct. 5.—The enthusiasts who went to Mahaffey park this afternoon to witness a game between the local team and the Pittsburgh champions, were not disappointed by a one-sided affair.

Some of the work in both teams was of the sensational order. While the Pittsburgh team was not composed entirely of their regular men, those who subbed were about on a par with the home team.

Leach's work at third bag was sensational at all times. The attendance was large, a number of Pittsburgh people accompanying their team. The score:

POLICE ARE CERTAIN BOYS ARE MURDERED

Colored Youth Sticks to Story That He Did Not See Them on Day of Disappearance.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 5.—Little John Coffin and Price Jennings, whose bodies were found in a lonely field near Haddon Heights, were murdered. That is the verdict of the police of Camden, N. J. Every bit of evidence, they say, bears out the belief that the lads were enticed on some pretext to the place where their bodies were discovered, and were there poisoned.

The puzzling feature of the mystery is as to the plot by which the drug was administered to the boys. Three times today Paul Woodward, the colored youth upon whom suspicion has been turned, was subjected to a sharp examination. He was taken each time from his cell to the county jail and turned over to Prosecutor Lloyd. He stolidly maintained that he had seen nothing of the boys, Coffin and Jennings, since last Tuesday afternoon.

On this point he could not be shaken. In other details of his story he was somewhat vague and confused. Each statement he made conflicted in certain features with the other statements.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MARKET QUOTATIONS

Timothy Hay Closed Strong at Higher Prices—Oats and Shelled Corn Advance.

Summary for Last Week.

There was a gradual increase in strength of the hay situation all week, especially for best grade of timothy, and prices advanced, closing on Saturday firmer than at any preceding time. There have not been any large receipts of No. 1 timothy, and the demand quickly absorbs all offerings. Millfeed is steady at quotations which are a little lower than those ruling last Monday, arrivals having been liberal. Grains remained unchanged all week until the closing day, when oats and shelled corn went higher. Corn has been coming in slowly, new not yet having started to run, and now the long continued wet weather in the west is said to have damaged the corn in the shock to such an extent that some loss is inevitable. Throughout Ohio there has been much rain, and roads are bad in many western states. This will interfere with shipments and oats are feeling the influence of the condition. Receipts Saturday were light.

Few Changes in Grocery Staples.

Not many changes have occurred in the grocery market, but a few have been important. The navy bean situation is not understood. Reports of damage to unharvested crops have been so strenuous as to cause dealers to be undecided as to what the actual condition is, and all kinds of prices are heard of. Conservative jobbers are inclined to regard the wild rumors as purely in the interest of speculators, who desire to work off old crops, and are not making radical advances in price, believing the market will slump back in a few days. There are others who give full credence to reports and think a famine is coming. In the meantime a wide range of prices has be given to cover the range of ideas. Wholesalers hesitate to quote, but are not willing to let buyers get away, fearing the situation may not be so black as it is painted. Refined sugar declined five points for all grades on Friday. Flour is unchanged. Coffee is offering at old figures, but some jobbers have faith enough in reports of crop damage in Brazil to predict higher prices, and are advising their customers that coffee is a good purchase at present figures. Canned corn is strong at higher prices, with other canned goods unchanged. Dried fruits remain as they were, but the raisin situation is very firm.

Potato Market Somewhat Firmer.

Apples remain about as they were a week ago. Potatoes have not changed in price, congested freight conditions preventing the increase in receipts that was expected, and the tone of the market is firmer than it was a week ago. Cabbage is ruling in freely and is in moderate demand only, prices being much lower. Peaches had a merry time during the latter part of the week, coming forward in record-breaking quantities, and the market went to pieces. Much of the stock having been delayed in transit was in bad condition and could not be sold at any price, while even the better fruit was only in light request, buyers having had a surfeit of peaches, were not anxious to avail themselves of the opportunity to purchase. Michigan shippers expect the season to end this week. Fresh tomatoes are a little higher in price, but are still coming in quite freely. Tuesday was a very heavy day, and it looked as though the market might be overloaded enough to break, but surplus offerings were taken by local packing houses and the situation remained firm. Green corn is about as it was last Monday and string beans are higher. The feature of Saturday's trade was business light in fruits and produce, holders of perishable stock, especially peaches, suffering some loss.

Butter Steady as Quoted.

There are no special features in the butter situation. Prices for creamery did not change last week and the market was steady at the close. Cheese is still quoting higher, with the undertone strong and prospects very firm. Further advances would not surprise any one. Eggs are unchanged and enough are being received to supply the demand, but prices are strong and country shippers say they will go higher.

Live turkeys and chickens have been reduced in price during the week and there may be still further cuts before the close this week. Dressed stock remains firm at old prices.

Medium and small hams were advanced a quarter of a cent Saturday by provision dealers, while lard dropped back a half cent from the advanced position taken a week ago.

PENNSYLVANIA LEADS IN MONEY

Capital Increase in National Banks Ahead of All States of Union.

TEXAS WINS IN NUMBER

Secretary Shaw's Efforts to Relieve Money Situation Brings Prominently Forward Financial System of Government.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
625 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.

The action of Secretary Shaw during the past week in averting the threatened panic in the money centers by relieving the national banks of the necessity of keeping on hand a reserve as an additional security for the government deposits, thereby releasing $30,000,000 in ready money, again calls attention to the national banking system and the wonderful increase in the number of banks since the passage of the new law on the subject, March 18, 1900. Since that time, about 20 months, 1,179 new banks have been organized, with a total capitalization of $68,564,500. Texas still holds the lead in the number of new banks, with Pennsylvania a close second, with the possibility of taking the lead inside of another six months.

While Texas leads in the exact number of banks, the capital of the new banks in Pennsylvania is more than double those of the new banks in the Lone Star state. The records of the comptroller of the currency present the following interesting figures regarding the banks:

The number of national banking associations was increased during the month of September by the organization of 28 banks with aggregate capital stock of $3,030,000, bonds being deposited thereby as security for circulation to the amount of $306,750. Fourteen of the associations with capital of $2,425,000 were with individual capital stock of $50,000 or over, and 24 with capital of $605,000, banks of the class authorized by the amendment of March 14, 1900.

State Banks Converted.

The number of conversions of state into national banks during the month was seven, of which four aggregate capital of $105,000 were of the smaller class and three with capital of $675,000 of the larger. Five of the associations, of which three were organized with the minimum amount of capital stock, viz., $25,000, and two with $50,000 capital each, were banks to succeed state or private banks, placed in liquidation for that purpose. Banks of primary organization numbered 26, of which nine aggregate capital of $1,650,000, were of the larger class, and 17 with a total capital of $425,000 of the smaller class.

From March 14, 1900, to September 30, 1902, there were added to the system 1,179 associations with aggregate capital stock of $68,564,500, of which 785 with capital of $20,839,500 were of the smaller class, and 394 with total capital of $47,725,000 with individual capital of $50,000 or over. Included in the total number of organizations are 153 banks, with capital of $11,365,000, which were converted from state institutions. There were organized as successors to state or private banks placed in liquidation for the purpose 358 associations, with total capital of $20,510,600. The resulting number of primary organizations is 670, the aggregate capital being $36,689,500.

Banks in Liquidation.

The total number of national banking associations organized during the existence of the system is 6,443, of which 4,651 were in operation on September 30. National banks to the number of 1,406 have been placed in voluntary liquidation and 367 in the charge of receivers.

The authorized capital stock of banks on September 30 was $711,167,695, showing an increase in number of banks since March 14, 1900, of 1,024, and in capital stock of $94,859,000. During that period bonds on deposit as security for circulation increased from $244,611,570 to $326,052,770; circulation secured by bonds from $216,374,705 to $323,845,144, or a total increase of $107,468,349.

The amount of circulation outstanding secured by deposits of lawful money on account of insolvent and liquidating associations and those reducing their circulation, increased during the period from $38,027,925 to $43,150,474. The total national bank circulation outstanding amounts to $366,993,598. The changes in circulation by denominations are as follows:

Notes of the denomination of $5, which amounted on March 13, 1900, to $79,310,710, have been reduced to $57,947,025; $10 notes increased from $79,378,160 to $148,370,140, and $20 notes from $58,779,060 to $110,681,400. In round numbers notes of the denomination of $50 and $100 have been increased from $11,000,000 to $15,000,000, and from $24,000,000 to $33,000,000, respectively. The reduction of the issues of notes of the denomination of $5 and increase in the $10 and $20, are due to the restriction placed upon the issue of $5 notes by the act of March 14, 1900.

SOLDIERS GUARD STREETS OF TOWN

Trolley Strike Causes Renewed Mob Demonstrations at Glens Falls, N. Y.

ONE MAN IS IN HOSPITAL

Non-Union Conductor Dragged from Car and Badly Pummeled. Troops Shoot in Air to Overawe Crowds.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Glens Falls, N. Y., Oct. 5.—As a result of renewed activity by the striking motormen of the Hudson Valley Electric Railway Company, soldiers of the National guard are again guarding the peace of this town, and though today has seen no rioting, an uneasy feeling prevails.

The militia company of this place, which had been dismissed to its armory Thursday last, was called out again last night and is now protecting the power house and other property of the railway company in Glens Falls. A squad is also guarding a bridge at Sandy hill, having been sent there following a report that one of the canal bridges was to be blown up.

The riot last night was precipitated by the arrest of a man who made insulting remarks to one of the non-union employes, and each car passing was the object of a demonstration.

At Cool's switch four cars were stalled at one time. They were soon abandoned, the non-union motormen and conductors placing themselves in the hands of the police for protection or deserting to the strikers. The car windows were smashed and a fusillade of bricks and stones hurled at the cars.

Conductor Currier of Brooklyn was so badly injured by being hit in the head with missiles that he is in the hospital in a serious condition.

The last car from the north which came into town about 11 o'clock carried mail sacks which were removed to the railway offices. About this time Company K, National guard, under Capt. Mott, made its appearance, and marching to the jail, took the motormen and conductors under protection. The militiamen used the butts of their guns and threatened to shoot.

Under a heavy guard of soldiers the seven stalled cars were run down toward the power house, followed by a mob. In the outskirts of the city riotous demonstrations were made and stones thrown, to which the soldiers responded by volleys of bullets in the air. Further on a pole had been sawed in two and falling on a car delayed further progress.

Chief of Police Patterson fired twice at persons who attempted to prevent him closing a window in the jail and who threatened him with revolvers. He thinks he hit one man. Mud was thrown at cars and passengers in Fort Edward today.

There was no rioting this evening, as the company did not attempt to move cars, Capt. Mott being unable to furnish enough men to guard them. The militia and police compelled every one to move along. Several unruly persons refused to move, insulted the militiamen and were knocked down by the soldiers. The police then made several arrests.

BISHOP FARLEY DEEPLY AFFECTED

Receives Official Notice of His Selection as Archbishop During Services.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The golden jubilee of the Holy Cross church was celebrated today, the service being celebrated by the Most Rev. John M. Farley, D. D., and the Right Rev. Mgr. Joseph F. Mooney, vicar general. Over 100 priests were present.

After the ceremony Father P. J. Hayes handed a sealed packet, which had been sent through the mail by special delivery, to Bishop Farley. It contained the bulls which were received yesterday from the pope by the apostolic delegation in Washington.

The documents officially notified Bishop Farley of his selection as archbishop. The sight of the papers deeply affected him, and he at once retired to the vestry, where were gathered priests and choir boys, and knelt down before a small altar and prayed for nearly 20 minutes.

He afterward made the announcement of his official notification to the guests of the church, who were partaking of dinner in the Holy Cross school hall.

Bishop Farley will receive the pallium within the next three weeks. The day after it is received the ceremony which will proclaim him archbishop will be performed.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Imports of iron and steel have doubled in the last year, while exports of iron and steel are still falling off. The August import and export figures of the treasury bureau of statistics show that the importations of iron and steel manufactures for the eight months ending with August are $11,000,000 greater than in the corresponding months of last year, while the exportations of iron and steel manufactures are nearly $5,000,000 less than they were in the corresponding months of last year, and $21,000,000 less than in the corresponding months of 1900. In the single month of August, the imports increased more than $2,000,000 over those of August, 1901, and at the present rate of gain, the total imports of iron and steel in the calendar year 1902 will exceed those of 1901 by $20,000,000.

Practically every class of iron and steel shows an increase in imports during 1902, as compared with 1901. In the month of August, 1902, the importations of pig iron were 29,447 tons, against 4,501 tons in August of last year; scrap iron, 13,750 tons, against 4,363 tons; steel rails, $53,704 value, against $537; ingots, blooms, slabs, billets and bars of steel, 87,420,104 pounds, against 1,670,519 pounds; wire and articles made therefrom, 520,825 pounds, against 358,750 pounds; machinery, $343,472, against $171,755. Considering the figures of eight months ending with August, 1902, compared with eight months of 1901, the figures stand: Pig iron, $4,676,649, against $886,873; ingots, billets, blooms and bars of steel, $4,783,432, against $863,314; and machinery, $2,824,021, against $1,950,827.

On the export side the reduction in many articles is equally striking. Of steel rails the total value of the exports in the eight months ending with August, 1902, is $1,004,422, against $6,715,113 in the corresponding months of last year; railway engines, $2,574,384, against $3,050,246; pig iron, $397,421, against $708,288; billets, ingots and blooms, $54,524, against $671,135; steel sheets and plates, 23,818,103 pounds, against 46,880,367, and iron sheets and plates, 5,965,572 pounds, against 11,910,806 pounds.

The following table from the advance sheets of the treasury bureau of statistics shows the importations of iron and steel manufactures in August, 1902, compared with August, 1901:

DEMAND ON STONE.

New Jersey People Call Upon Him to Cause Resumption of Mining. Roosevelt Praised.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—At a big meeting of citizens Saturday night a resolution was passed calling on Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania to cause the mining of coal to be resumed and to protect the workmen with troops, if necessary.

A committee of 14 will be appointed by the mayor to take steps toward securing coal for the poor in the city. Several clergymen made speeches.

A "Mission" Rocker.

Last week we took occasion to speak of the oddity of Mission furniture and its popularity among lovers of the quaint and beautiful.

Today we call attention to a Rocker in this style—a typical example—finished in weathered oak—and with a rush seat. This chair is singularly comfortable, and a real acquisition to either library or den.

Despite the fact that Mission furniture is still to be considered among the novelties, you will be surprised to find how moderate prices are at

LA FLEUR CORSETS.

A distinguished name for the finest Corsets ever designed.

Today in the second floor Corset Department we begin demonstrating the superiority La Fleur over many high grade Corsets.

Miss Wogan, an experienced demonstrator, representing the manufacturers, will be in charge.

And as all that can be said in print praising anything new is not half so satisfactory, or convincing, as seeing and hearing a person telling of and pointing out its good points, we cordially invite all women to be present on some one of these demonstration days.

There will be daily demonstrations for some time to come.

Delight on Your Side—Gratification on Ours.

Last week the demonstration of our Fashion Exhibit was manifest. Thousands came. Delighted enthusiasm was universal. We are conscious we never did so well before, and public expressions of opinion verify our own belief.

On the second floor the fine garments that were on exhibition are now back in their cases, along with their fellows, awaiting your selection. It is quite worthy of note that no other collection comparable at all, comes to greater Pittsburg.

Here alone does the public of the greater city have the broadest authentic view of art and elegance in dress as produced by the best foreign artists, as well as most noted of our American designers.

In the following our Rug and Furniture Departments are especially featured, and those about to discuss, for the refurnishment of their homes, the refined and the elegant in either branch, are invited to come and look over our unusual and enlarged collections.

The Finest of Fine Furniture for the Most Moderate Prices.

There is so much flimsy furniture these days, glossy surfaces hiding ugly defects, that to get among furniture every single piece of which is as true as anything can possibly be is a great pleasure.

Our specialty is in unique furniture, quaint and of excellent make, but priced within the reach of all with moderate means. And the last part of the preceding sentence is applicable to the regular furniture—every style, considering quality and finish, is moderate in price.

Den Furniture.

These rooms, which are now so popular in all homes, both for the younger members as well as the elderly—popular with ladies as well as gentlemen—has come to be treated in a manner altogether at variance with the regular rooms. Therefore it necessitates providing furniture and draperies that are unique.

We have gone to much trouble in preparing a complete line of Den Furniture, and are now ready with every late style.

The Stickley Furniture from the Onondaga shops, is peculiarly adapted for dens, being strong and durable, while the wood of which it is made, chestnut, is prettily marked and shows to good advantage in furniture of this Mission style. Of such furniture there are Arm Chairs, Rockers, Morris Chairs, Settees, Tables, Taborets, Plant Stands, etc.

The cushions on chairs and settees, as well as many of the tables, are covered with leather in red, green and gray, the wood being finished in brown and green.

The Ridenour Furniture is another admirable collection for dens. It is made of ash, and this season many of the pieces are relieved with imported Dutch tiles, which make decidedly admirable Buffets, Smoking Cabinets, Tables, Stands, etc.

Cellarettes and Smoking Cabinets in variety of styles and designs. Some are fitted with glasses and decanters, others have tobacco and cigar jars, others still have metal receptables for cigars, with shelf for moistener. There are also oak and mahogany Cellarettes with folding tops which are nice for card playing.

Our new Morris Chairs for dens are finished in Antwerp Oak and are complete with cushions. $10, $12.75 and $15.

While we have dwelt on den furniture at some length, it must be borne in mind that there is every style of Furniture here that is in vogue. Further, if there is nothing in our large collection that meets your ideas, we have a large cabinet shop in which is made to order specially designed furniture.

The Latest Creation in Rug Weaving—Hand-Tufted Rugs.

In our Fifth Floor Rug Department there is exhibited the very latest idea in adornments for the floor—Hand-Tufted Rugs.

They are all wool and are made on looms similar to those used in Turkey.

As none but best materials are used, they are the finest rugs of their kind.

The peculiar feature of these rugs is their construction of design and blending of colors. They are very effective when it is desired to decorate a room in either Flemish, Dutch or Old German and English, or where Tapestry effects are introduced, the colors being old mahogany, blues, grays, greens and all colors of soft tones.

Perfect harmony is thus assured, which is often a matter of some difficulty, where complete blending is required.

We have in stock 10 feet 6 inches by 13 feet 6 inches, but can make up any size desired, submitting sketches to carry out any ideas suggested. Price of the rug in size mentioned, $285.

We also have Bokhara Rugs, which are made on Oriental looms, and are the best reproductions of old Bokhara Rugs we have ever seen. These rugs are made up in one piece—12 by 9 feet. They have been pronounced the best in the country. The price is $125. There is also another size—9 by 6 feet—which sells for $65.

Genuine Oriental Rugs.

Good Oriental Rugs—intrinsically good as well as fair of face—are not easily found these days. The country is full of garbled collections.

For absolute surety in having a perfect Oriental Rug, the only safe way is to buy from stores that go direct to the Orient for their collections—that send an expert to the Asiatic countries who knows where to locate the finest rugs.

Ours is the only store in Western Pennsylvania that sends, each year, such expert.

Prospective purchasers should memorize this fact.

And above all, it should be thoroughly understood that fine Oriental Rugs are not to be bought for cheap prices. They are as rare as the perfect pearl.

In our collection recently landed there is every imaginable rug made in the Orient. We are prepared to answer all questions from a thorough knowledge of how these rugs are handwoven, how it takes years to complete some of them. And it is always a pleasure to show our full collection.

We carry the largest number of Carpet sizes in Oriental Rugs west of New York. The general price range for the rugs begins at $3.75 and goes to $3,000.00.

NOTE—Our Fall Carpetings are all in and we are ready to show the latest things in Brussels, Tapestries and Wiltons.
